WOMEN ARE DENIED PLACES ON BOARDS BY COUNCIL ACTION

In His Veto, Which Was Sustained, Woodward Stated Law Would Make Commissions Unwieldy.

CHIEF OF CONSTRUCTION TO BE NAMED BY PEOPLE

Council Overrides Mayor's Veto of Resolution Giving It Permission to Break Board Deadlocks.

Atlanta women who desire to participate politically in the administration of the city's affairs saw their hopes blasted yesterday when the general council sustained Mayor James G. Woodward's veto of the proposed charter amendment admitting women as members of four chartered boards.

In his message to council Mayor Woodward took the position that by adding five more members to the educational, park, library and hospital boards, making the membership seventeen instead of twelve, these bodies would be made too unwieldy and less useful, and he pointed to his attitude in the recent charter fight as a precedent for his action.

When the mayor's message was read before council it was voted to appoint a committee of five to discuss the vetoes, seven in number, among which was the suffrage amendment. Three members of the committee voted on a report sustaining the mayor. They took the position that while women should be allowed on boards, still they should not be added along with the twelve now provided by the charter, but should be made eligible to take the places of retiring members. The other members of the committee thought that women should be made eligible to take places on the board and serve whenever elected.

When the veto was finally offered to council for vote it was sustained by a vote of 17 against 10.

Woodward's Explanation.

Mayor Woodward's explanation of his action follows:

"In returning the matter of placing ladies on the different boards of your city, I do so not with the desire of voting 'no,' or because I am opposed to ladies being on these said boards, but I return it to your body because of the addition of five members to these different boards. These different boards are composed of twelve members each at the present time, and the idea of increasing that membership to seventeen seems to make them too unwieldy and less useful.

"If you will pass up a measure leaving the membership at twelve, and as vacancies occur, place ladies on the boards, up to a certain number, I will take pleasure in approving same. It might be better to pass up an ordinance, or if it is necessary in the amendment of these different boards, that you make their connection therewith something similar to the board of education, only increasing their power by giving them the right of initiative and isolation. That is, whenever they desire a measure placed before the board for action, that they shall have the authority to do so, and not upon the mere idea of recommending to boards. It might be that this feature would prove more effective and satisfactory to the ladies, and at the same time be of benefit to the different departments that you have selected for them to occupy positions on boards.

Of the twelve charter amendments adopted by the general council last Monday, five were approved by the mayor and seven were vetoed.

Six Vetoes Sustained.

The seven vetoes were acted on Monday afternoon and six were sustained. One of the most important was the amendment authorizing the mayor and general council to elect the chief of construction. Under the charter the chief of construction is elected by a popular vote of the people.

Alderman Albert Thomson, chairman of the charter amendment committee, arguing on behalf of the amendment, declared that Mayor Woodward himself had agreed that the chief of construction should be elected by council.

"What reason does the mayor give for vetoeing the amendment?" asked Alderman John S. Owens, of Alderman Thomson.

"I don't know," he replied, 'except that possibly the mayor expects to run again this fall."

Mayor Woodward also vetoed the resolution authorizing an amendment giving the city police power to regulate the smoke nuisance in cases outside the city limits. The veto was sustained by reason of council's failure to vote the requisite two-thirds majority.

Aimed at Martha's Home?

Quite a sensation was sprung by Mayor Woodward, in his message vetoing the amendment authorizing the city to exercise police power in the regulation of fertilizing plants and cemeteries in the city limits. The mayor intimated that the amendment was aimed at the Martha's Home, an institution maintained by the Men and Religion Forward Movement for fallen women. The home is located in the seventh ward, and is a source of considerable objection by the people of the seventh ward.

The vote on the amendment was 15 to override the mayor and 14 to sustain. Because of the vote it overrides did not carry a two-third majority, the mayor was sustained.

Other Vetoes Sustained.

The other vetoes sustained were:

To authorize the mayor and council to assess property owners for white-way lights on a petition signed by a majority of persons living on a given block.

To authorize the mayor and council to condemn sidewalks and streets.

Mayor Woodward's veto of the amendment authorizing council to elect chairmen of board to break deadlocks was overriden. The amendment was offered by Alderman Nutting, and is aimed to correct just such situations as resulted in the police board in the contest between Commissioner Pain and Pace. The amendment authorizes council to step in and elect a chairman in the event a board does not elect one within sixty days after the

AT LAST!

55,000 RAIL MEN MAY GO ON STRIKE

Vote Being Taken on 98 Roads West of Chicago. Efforts to Settle the Trouble Have Failed.

Chicago, June 1.—A referendum vote as to whether the 55,000 engineers and firemen on ninety-eight railroads west of Chicago shall strike will be taken at once. This was the announcement of Warren S. Stone, grand chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, and W. S. Carter, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, tonight after negotiations between the firemen and engineers and the general managers' committee, representing the railroads, had been broken off.

The railroads late today gave a final refusal to the demands of the trainmen for wage increases and new working conditions.

Mr. Stone said it probably will require about thirty days to complete the vote. In the meantime no further proposals will be submitted.

Negotiations have been going on here for nearly three months. The railroads involved include practically all the lines in the United States west of Chicago including the Illinois Central and all lines in Canada west of Fort Williams except the Grand Trunk Pacific. They have a total extent of 140,000 miles and annually pay $67,750,000 in wages to the engineers and firemen.

The general managers' committee in a statement says that the demands of the men would increase the payrolls of the departments approximately 50 per cent.

WHITMAN ANNOUNCES FOR N. Y. GOVERNORSHIP

New York, June 1.—District Attorney Whitman, of New York, tonight announced his candidacy for the republican nomination for governor.

It was learned also that a movement had been launched with the design of procuring Mr. Whitman's nomination on both the republican and progressive tickets. For this purpose it is planned to hold a non-partisan mass meeting in Syracuse in the last week of July to name a ticket headed by Mr. Whitman for presentation at both the republican and progressive primaries.

Charles H. Duell, Jr., a New York lawyer, active in the progressive campaign of 1912, said tonight Colonel Roosevelt had given him positive assurance that he would support the plan.

DR. S. C. BENEDICT DIES OF APOPLEXY IN MACON

President of the State Board of Health—Funeral in Athens Today.

Macon, Ga., June 1.—(Special.)—Dr. Samuel C. Benedict, of Athens, president of the state board of health of Georgia and conspicuous in Georgia medical circles for a great many years, died this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Williams sanitarium, where he had been for several weeks suffering from a stroke of apoplexy. His death had been expected daily, and those who were acquainted with his condition considered it remarkable that he clung to life as long as he did.

Announcement was made that the body would be taken to Athens tomorrow morning for funeral and interment.

Born in Connecticut.

Dr. Benedict was born in Hartford, Conn., in 1856. He graduated at the Miami Medical college in Cincinnati, Ohio, in 1878 and for one year was resident physician of the Cincinnati hospital. From 1880-1881 he was a surgeon in the United States army, and since that time had been professor of medical jurisprudence at the University of Georgia. Since 1908 he had been dean of the school of pharmacy of the University of Georgia.

Among the other important positions held by Dr. Benedict was the presidency of the state board of health, which office he held at his death; surgeon at Athens for the Central of Georgia railway, the Seaboard Air Line railway, the Georgia railroad and the Gainesville Midland railroad; ex-president of the Medical Association of

5,000 VOTERS ASK GAS INVESTIGATION

Petition Filed With Council Asking Appropriation With View to Securing a Cheaper Rate.

The Gas Consumers' league, through City Electrician R. C. Turner, yesterday filed with council a petition signed by 5,000 registered voters urging the city to appropriate $5,000 for the use of the Georgia Railroad commission to make an investigation into the affairs of the Atlanta Gas Light company.

The petition is the first filed invoking the initiative and referendum granted under the charter amendments which were passed up by the legislature last year.

The petition also marks the first step in the direction of forcing the Atlanta Gas Light company to reduce its rate from $1 to 80 cents.

The resolution accompanying the petition was referred to the finance committee because it will be up to the committee to find the money to be used in making the investigation. The question will then be submitted to the voters at an election to be held probably in August to determine whether or not the investigation shall be made.

RENOUNCES WORLD IN ORDER TO NURSE HIS LEPER COMRADE

Milwaukee, June 1.—When physicians at the Soldiers' home, at West Allis, definitely determined last week that an inmate, Vernon D. Bennett, was a leper, they called for volunteers to nurse him. Fred W. Curtenious, another inmate, has announced he would take the place.

Curtenious, like Bennett, served through the Spanish-American war. He is listed in the books at the home as will, laborer, a Protestant, unmarried and friendless."

In accompanying Bennett into the exile which the latter's isolation in a shack at the home means, he virtually renounces the world. Physicians say that in time he will probably contract the disease. Ten civil war veterans also volunteered to nurse Bennett. All were over 70 and too feeble, it was decided, to do the work.

Scarlet Fever in Pen.

Auburn, N. Y., June 1.—Eighty per cent of all the convicts and guards examined in Auburn prison show symptoms of scarlet fever, according to a statement made today by a special deputy of the state health department. The prison was quarantined Saturday.

BETTER FACILITIES FOR FIRE FIGHTING IN ATLANTA URGED

Present Facilities of Local Department Criticized at Many Points in National Fire Underwriters' Report.

ASK INDEFINITE TERM FOR THE FIRE CHIEF

Additional Companies Declared Needed in Outlying Districts—Third of Hose in Questionable Condition.

The committee on fire prevention of the National Board of Fire Underwriters, which has just rendered its complete report on the city of Atlanta, recommends many important changes and improvements in the city's fire protection system.

The report criticises Atlanta's fire-fighting facilities at many points. It cites that the pumping capacity is inadequate, and that while pressures generally are well maintained, they are only fair in the congested valve district.

The report gives Chief W. B. Cummings a clean bill of health as a capable fire chief. The department, however, says the report is slightly undermanned and supervision is not wholly satisfactory. Additional companies are needed in the outlying districts. The chemical service is declared deficient. One-third of the hose supply is found to be in questionable condition. The fire methods and the manner in which records are kept was found by the committee to be mainly satisfactory.

Financial Support Needed.

The department is in need of more financial support, declares the report. The fire alarm system was commended, with the exception that better internal fire protection is needed.

Fire department auxiliaries, such as police co-operation, were pronounced adequate.

The building inspector's department was given a clean bill of health, with the recommendation that the fire limits and the shingle-roof limits be extended.

Conflagration hazard in the congested valve district, says the report, is somewhat reduced by recent construction, but the potential hazard is still high in the congested portion of the city. Buildings of improved construction and automatic sprinkler equipments have greatly reduced hazards on the north side of the city.

Important Recommendations.

The following are some of the recommendations made by the report:

That an employee of the water department respond to first alarm fires in high value district and to all second alarm fires, to cut out broken service connections and hydrants and otherwise to co-operate with the fire department.

That the reliability of the supply works be increased as follows:

Additional boilers aggregating 600-horse power to be installed at the Chattahoochee pumping station.

The proposed 48-inch main from the coagulating basins to the filters to be laid at once, to complete the duplication of the supply works.

An additional clear water basin of at least 2,000,000 gallons capacity to be constructed and suitably connected to the pumps. This could advantageously be done in connection with the installation of additional filter units.

That the pumping stations at the Hemphill pumping station be made as follows:

(a) Install additional boilers aggregating 600-horse power.

(b) Install 20,000,000 gallons additional pumping capacity.

(c) Install an automatic sprinkler system throughout boiler and pump rooms from the rest of the building by approved fire doors on standard fire walls.

Organization of Department.

That the chief be appointed for an indefinite term with removal only for cause after trial.

That members in the ranks be retired from active duty after reaching the age of 62 years.

That the following changes and additions in companies and apparatus be made:

Install a seven-man company in new station 15, West Peachtree street, near Fourteenth street, equipped with an automobile combination chemical and hose wagon.

Build a station on the city lot at Marietta street, near McMillan street; install a fifteen-man company, equipped with an automobile combination chemical and hose wagon, and an automobile service truck, or the service truck now at station 4, with a motor tractor.

Build a station on the city lot on West Hunter street, near Jeptha street; install an eight-man company, equipped with a 700-gallon automobile combination pump, chemical and hose wagon.

Provide an automobile quick-raising aerial ladder truck at station 4; equip steamer 4 with a motor tractor and install an automobile combination chemical and hose wagon.

Combine Hose Company 8 and Chemical Company 3 as a hose company, equipped with an automobile combination chemical and hose wagon.

Combine Hose Company 1 and Chemical Company 1 as an engine company, equipped with a 900-gallon engine, either automobile or steamer with motor tractor, and an automobile chemical and hose wagon.

Provide automobile chemical and hose wagon for engine company 9.

That each hose wagon carry about equal amounts of 2½ and 3-inch hose, with a total of at least 1,000 feet; all 2½ and 3-inch hose to be fitted with 2½-inch couplings, properly beveled.

That a suitable pompier tower and other necessary equipment be provided for drilling men in the use of all tools and appliances, including scaling lad-

Mediation Boat Roughly Rocked By Mexic Rebels

Gen. Carranza and His Advisers Issue a Statement Sharply Attacking Work of the A. B. C. Envoys at Niagara Falls.

OUTSIDE INTERFERENCE WILL NOT BE TOLERATED ACCORDING TO REBELS

Declare They Have Conquered Huerta and Intend to Settle Mexic Problems in Their Own Way. Amazement Is Expressed at the Proposals of the Mediators.

El Paso, Texas, June 1.—A semi-official statement from General Carranza's headquarters at Durango, criticising the action of the A. B. C. mediators at Niagara Falls, and an announcement from General Villa reiterating his allegiance as a military leader to Carranza, were the developments today of the Mexican situation here. Villa arrived at Chihuahua City from Torreon on his way from Juarez. Carranza was reported as having begun preparations to move by way of Torreon to Saltillo, where he will perfect his provisional government.

The statement from Durango, where Carranza's provisional government was established several days ago, was addressed to the press of the United States with a note to the effect that it had official sanction, although it was not a formal declaration.

ASTONISHMENT DOMINANT SENTIMENT.

The telegram, in part, follows:

"The dominant sentiment of the constitutionalists regarding the proceedings of the mediation commission at Niagara Falls is one of astonishment that there should be such an apparent lack of understanding on the part of that body, not only with regard to affairs in Mexico, but as to the attitude of the constitutionalists regarding the mediators. This lack of understanding is not confined to the commissioners themselves, but seems to be shared by a large portion of the American press as well as by the government.

"Judging from what has been published from day to day, the mediators appear to consider General Carranza and his followers as a negligible quantity, scarcely worthy of attention, and who, perforce, must agree to whatever conclusion the commission may reach. They do not seem to be aware of the fact that the constitutionalists are conquerors, that they have inaugurated and carried almost to a successful completion a revolution, and that this means the establishment of a government entitled to recognition by the rest of the world. Recent successes of the constitutionalists' arms and letters that are imminent, are conclusive proof that the power of Huerta is practically ended. His troops will not fight. They either run away or join their opponents with every sign of willingness.

MEXICAN CAPITAL READY TO FALL.

"All that prevents the constitutionalists from entering Mexico City today is the physical obstacle of the destruction of the railroads. With communication restored, which is being accomplished with rapidity, the army would be in Mexico City in less than a week. Yet the constitutionalist leaders point to the deliberations of the commission and the statements of the press as absolutely ignoring this situation. The peace commission even goes so far as to propose that the constitutionalists must recognize whatever provisional government they de-

WIFE OF HUERTA AND HER 4 SONS FLEEING MEXICO?

Reported That They Are Secret Passengers on the Steamer Ypiranga Which Sailed From Vera Cruz Monday.

Vera Cruz, June 1.—Coincident with the sailing of the Hamburg-American steamer Ypiranga from here late today, persistent rumors, originating in Mexico City and brought here by refugees, were circulated that Senora Huerta and her four sons were aboard the ship. The Ypiranga cleared for Europe by way of Havana. As she left the harbor the German cruiser Dresden unexpectedly hauled up her anchor and followed at sea. There was a report that the liner's destination was Puerto Mexico.

Neither Brigadier General Funston nor any other army or navy officer heard the rumor that some of the Huerta family were aboard the Ypiranga until after the steamer had sailed. There is no means to verify the report or to get a positive denial.

Element of Mystery.

A similar report of a more vague nature was in circulation Saturday, but this the ship's officers and agents denied. There was an element of mystery, however, in eight locked rooms, originally reserved for Dr. Urrutia, the former minister of the interior, which were not otherwise disposed, although he had proceeded to the United States.

According to the reports in Mexico City, Senora Huerta and her sons went to Puerto Mexico several days ago on a special train, escorted by palace guards, boarded the Ypiranga there and remained in seclusion during the steamer's stay in this port.

General Funston said that this might be possible, as no attempt had been made to search aboard the ship or the steamer. It was reported also from the capital that Senora Huerta drew from the bank 1,000,000 pesos before she started.

Huerta May Depart Secretly.

Still another report from the capital had it that President Huerta himself had left for Puerto Mexico several days ago on a sleeping car with train loads of the Twenty-ninth infantry ahead and behind. Refugees declare that they passed a train of this nature this morning on the way from Mexico City and noted that more than 300 soldiers of the Twenty-ninth infantry were aboard.

These reports are generally discredited here, but are viewed as interesting and as showing a general belief in the capital that Huerta may depart secretly at any moment.

DR. PICKARD CHOSEN PRESIDENT OF MERCER

Savannah Pastor Was Elected Over Dr. Landrum and Professor Sellers.

Macon, Ga., June 1.—(Special.)—Dr. W. L. Pickard, pastor of the First Baptist church at Savannah for the last six years, and one of the best known and most popular ministers in Georgia, was elected president of Mercer university shortly before midnight tonight, after the board of trustees had spent three hours debating the question behind closed doors.

A wire was immediately sent to Dr. Pickard, who is conducting a revival meeting in North Carolina, asking him if he would accept. His friends say that he will undoubtedly do so. The names of Professor J. F. Sellers, acting president of Mercer since the resignation of Dr. S. Y. Jameson a year ago, and Dr. W. O. Landrum, of Louisville, Ky., were considered by the trustees, along with Dr. Pickard.

One the first ballot Dr. Landrum, of Louisville, Ky., received nine votes; Professor Sellers, acting president, eight votes, and Dr. Pickard, five votes. On the second ballot Dr. Pickard came to the front with ten votes. Dr. Landrum holding his original nine and Professor Sellers dropping back to three. "Then a motion was made to make Dr. Pickard's election unanimous, which carried without dissent.

Dr. Pickard, previous to becoming pastor of the First Baptist church at Savannah, held several pastorates in the north and east.

The trustees today accepted the resignation of Professor E. J. Forrester as treasurer of Mercer, and will elect in his place a business manager to handle the finances of the institution. The board will continue in session through tomorrow.

The question of the abolishment of fraternities will probably be taken up tomorrow.

C. F. von HERRMANN,

cide to set up and to declare that they must be forced to recognize that government or be crushed.

"The constitutionalist leaders are wondering how they are to be forced to do this in view of their present accomplishments and by whom they are to be crushed if they decline to obey the commission. Calmly, too, the commission proposes that Huerta shall be permitted to be a candidate for the presidency in order merely to save his face. Do they think the constitutionalists will consent to that any more than they will consent to recognize a provisional government constituted as the commission proposes, of one person selected by Huerta, one by themselves, and one, perhaps, but not at all likely, by the constitutionalists?

BAN ON HUERTA AND SUPPORTERS.

"No one, the constitutionalist leaders point out, who has had any acquaintance with the objects and purposes of their movements, would fancy that they would ever consent to have anything to do with any one heretofore connected with Huerta. The constitutionalists make it plain beyond question they will recognize a government established under the plan of Guadalupe at the triumph of the revolution. According to this plan the commander in chief of the constitutionalist army will be the provisional president of the Mexican republic while the elections are being verified and constitutional order is restored. They point out the fact the conquerors are not usually wont to permit the conquered to dictate the terms of peace, which is practically what is to be asked of them by the commission. Constitutionalists are especially caustic in their comment on the proposal of the commission to take up the Agrarian question and propose some form of settlement. They declare that this is a purely internal problem and that they will tolerate no outside interference.

"Indeed this is their attitude with regard to the entire proceedings of the mediation commission. They declare that if let alone they will settle the entire Mexican problem in a few months, and in proof of their ability to do this, point to what they have already accomplished in the way of driving the federals from two-thirds of the country with the imminent prospect of securing the other third in no great time.

WHO WILL FORCE REBELS TO ACCEPT?

"They point also to what they have already done and are doing in settling the agrarian problem.

"When shown statements bearing inference that, should the Niagara Falls plan not be agreeable to the constitutionalists, they would be forced to accept it or be crushed, the constitutionalist leaders ask, how and by whom? They point out that the alleged object of the Niagara Falls conference was to promote peaceful settlement. With nearly two-thirds of Mexico in their hands and now being restored to a basis of peace after four years of civil strife, the constitutionalist leaders fail to see what peaceful measures could be brought to bear to constrain them to accept the plan. They assert that with an army of approximately 50,000 men in the field the occupation of the remainder of Mexico, the capture of the capital and the elimination of Huerta and his followers is a matter of not more than two months.

"Should any or all of the foreign nations party to the conference at Niagara Falls decide, as a result of that conference, called to promote peace, to use force to secure acceptance of their plan, the constitutionalists feel that it would present a situation so contradictory as to be ludicrous.

AGRARIAN SOLUTION CAUSES LAUGHTER.

"The announcement that a basis had been secured for the solution of the agrarian question was received with laughter. The constitutionalists do not recognize the right of the mediators to rule concerning this subject, especially as the stand of the Huerta party on the matter largely was responsible for the unrest in Mexico.

"The constitutionalists assert the foreign mediators have not been able to settle this question in their own countries, and yet they apparently take it upon themselves to settle so grave a matter for a country of which the conditions they must be ignorant. The leaders explain the agrarian problem is one for local settlement and that the only parties to the Niagara plan who understand local conditions are men who hold radically opposite views to those of the great majority in Mexico. The inference that Huerta might become a candidate for president at a future election is regarded as impossible. He is regarded as a criminal by the constitutionalists and that he should become a candidate for anything except the guillotine or the electric chair is not considered seriously by them."

MEDIATORS WANT MORE INFORMATION.

Niagara Falls, Ont., June 1.—More explicit information about the attitude of General Carranza than was contained in his last communication brought by Juan F. Urquidi, or the unofficial statement to the press telegraphed from Durango tonight, is awaited by the mediators before deciding on the subject of constitutionalist representation here. This may be obtained from the Washington government.

The mediators are preparing a reply to the message brought by Urquidi. The statement from Durango did not clarify the situation as to the points they are interested in. Whether Carranza will agree to an armistice for ten days or two weeks or more, and whether his representatives would agree to discuss the entire subject of pacification of Mexico.

The expression from Durango did not alter the opinion of the mediators toward the constitutionalists. The diplomats claim that from the very outset they have kept the interests of the constitutionalists in mind, and have planned to give them as great a share in the new government as is proportionate to their strength.

As to the military side the concentration of federal forces at San Luis Potosi, where the Huerta troops are confident of checking the constitutionalist advance, is in line with the general belief here that the capture of Mexico City is still months away.

The American delegates argued at length with the mediators today about constitutionalist participation, and at the conclusion of the conference Justice Lamar said that he was "hopeful" and that the views presented were "not so far apart."

The issue is squarely before the mediators for decision. The Mexican delegates have indicated they will agree to abide by the will of the three diplomats. The latter take the view that their original conditions must be complied with before any invitation to Carranza can be renewed. They would like to see Carranza a party to the negotiations, but believe if he does not enter they will be able nevertheless, to approximate constitutionalist opinion and keep their interests in mind in the establishment of a new government.

The American government is known to be active in an effort to bring the constitutionalists into the parleys at Niagara Falls. Upon the developments of the next few days depend the success of the entire peace program. Should the constitutionalists remain obdurate and refuse to meet the terms fixed by the mediators the negotiations here will not be disrupted on that account for the United States, it is known, will not insist to such a degree as would upset what has already been accomplished toward obtaining a change of administration in Mexico.

WASHINGTON URGES REBEL RECOGNITION.

Washington, June 1.—American delegates to the Mexican mediation conference at Niagara Falls were in frequent communication today with the Washington government in relation, it was said, to the hitch in the negotiations which has arisen since the note was sent last week to the mediators outlining the position of the constitutionalists.

That Justice Lamar and Mr. Lehmann have been urging recognition of Carranza seems more apparent than ever in Washington tonight. President Wilson personally sent messages to his representatives, the nature of which was held in the strictest confidence.

"Is mediation progressing satisfactorily?" Secretary Bryan was asked.

"It can be said that the conference is progressing satisfactorily," he said with a smile.

Whether mediation will come to naught in case the South American envoys should determine to reject all the proposals for enlarging the scope of the conference to include representatives of the Mexican revolutionists was the uppermost subject of discussion here today. Many held that the original proposal for a protocol to be signed by the United States and Huerta's representatives should be adhered to and that the United States would then await developments, hoping that influence could be brought to bear which would result in a reorganization of the governmental affairs in Mexico with friendly participation by constitutionalist leaders after the United States and Huerta had settled their differences.

Others inclined to the view that the constitutionalists would proceed with increased vigor to the physical overthrow of the Huerta regime, capture the government at Mexico City and then protest that there was nothing to mediate.

ATTITUDE OUTLINED BY REBEL AGENTS.

Washington, June 1.—Constitutionalist representatives in Washington tonight issued their first formal statement since the Niagara Falls mediation conference began. Luis Cabrera, on behalf of himself and his colleagues, Rafael Zuberan and Jose Vasconselos, outlined the constitutionalists attitude toward the question of representation at Niagara Falls, maintaining that it is for the United States and not the mediators or the representatives of General Huerta to decide whether representatives of the constitutionalists cause should take part in the deliberations.

Mr. Cabrera pointed out that General Carranza and his adherents thoroughly appreciated the good will of the mediators and were grateful to them for their efforts to bring peace to Mexico. Their belief that the United States is the proper arbiter, he said, on this question, was based upon careful consideration of the underlying principles of mediation, not upon any distrust of the representatives of the three South American nations.

"Should the constitutionalists participate in the Niagara Falls conference," the statement said, "is the question to be decided before any other point. Who is to decide this question? Is it Huerta? It is the mediators? It is the United States? Certainly not Huerta. The mediators, as such, are not interested parties to the agreement to settle the differences between the United States and Mexico. The chief function of the mediator is to limit his efforts to bringing the parties together, and any action having the effect of forcing them apart is opposed to the very purpose of the mediation.

"Should a conflict arise between England, which recognizes Huerta, and the United States, would question the propriety of England's dealing with Huerta. But in this case there is a conflict between Mexico and the United States. The United States has not recognized Huerta as the legal president of Mexico. Neither has it recognized the constitutionalists as the legal rulers of the country. But for the purpose of settling the present international conflict only the United States can decide if it is satisfied to deal only with Huerta or if it wants both factions to be represented in order to insure the success of the mediation.

"Should the mediators, by themselves, decide that the United States ought to deal with Huerta alone, they would leave the role of mediators and appoint themselves arbiters not only of the international question but of the internal, domestic affairs of Mexico."

W. J. HARRIS FIGURES IN THE SENATE DEBATE

Washington, June 1.—(Special.)—Whether Director W. J. Harris' resignation as director of the census will be accepted was the subject of comment today on the floor of the senate.

The comment was caused by the introduction of a resolution by Senator Morris Sheppard, of Texas, providing for the collection annually of statistics on marriages and divorce throughout the United States by the director of the census.

"Oh, I didn't know we had a director of the census," interrupted Senator Gallinger.

"I understood the late director, Mr. Harris, had resigned to run for governor of Georgia."

"That will be adjusted satisfactorily to all," insisted Senator Sheppard.

"Do you mean the director will resign if he is elected governor, but will remain director if defeated?"

"The senator has been in politics too long not to know that a man never resigns voluntarily," replied Senator Sheppard.

The vote on the veto was 20 to override and 7 to sustain.

In his message, which covers all the vetoes submitted to council, Mayor Woodward points out that he has abandoned the idea of general revision of the charter, and explains that he has vetoed seven of the proposed amendments because he believes the people would not approve them.

Patchwork, Says Mayor.

"I regard the seven amendments I have returned as just so many patches."

He says that if council will pass on the charter drawn by the charter committee last year and indorsed by more than 6,000 voters he will approve it.

Alderman Thomson drew a resolution urging the mayor to produce 6,000 postal cards returned by the voters in the postal card test vote during the charter campaign last year.

The mayor says he will turn the cards over to council or to Alderman Thomson whenever he sends or calls for them.

GRAND JURY TO MAKE PROBE OF COUNTY BOARD

The prospects Monday were that a speedy investigation of alleged irregularities in the county board will be made this week by the grand jury. The accusations were made during the campaign for re-election by rival candidates, and resulted in an organized move to investigate them.

The proposed investigation will likely start as soon as the present business is cleared away by the jury.

"NOT GUILTY" VERDICT FOR NAVAL STORES MEN

Four Defendants Freed After Legal Action Extending Over Six Years.

Savannah, Ga., June 1.—The four officers of the suspended American Naval Stores company, charged with violation of the federal anti-trust laws, were found not guilty in the United States district court here tonight. The defendants, E. S. Nash, S. P. Shotter and J. F. C. Myers, of this city, and Carl Mohler, of Jacksonville, Fla., were accused of a conspiracy to monopolize the naval stores trade.

Routine business and election of officers comprised the morning session. S. S. Shepherd, of Atlanta, was elected president; T. M. Morris, of Augusta, vice president, and Theo G. McAuliffe, of Augusta, treasurer.

The visitors were tendered a barbecue at the Gold Springs Club club grounds in the afternoon. There were more than 200 present. They had music and dancing, and everybody had a good time until nightfall.

REFUGEE FROM MEXICO ROBBED OF HER JEWELS

A negro snatched the purse of Mrs. W. W. Allen, of Mexico City, a refugee with her family to this city, on North Broad street last night about 9 o'clock, and escaped with jewelry valued at $700, down the steps leading from the Broad street viaduct to the railroad yards beneath.

Detectives Barker and Tuggle answered the call and are investigating the case. They discovered that a freight train was passing at the time and believe that the negro boarded it.

Mrs. Allen gave chase to the negro thief, but stopped when she thought he might injure her with a knife. She and her sister gave the alarm, and several citizens aided in the chase up North Broad street. The last of the negro was seen when he fell and rolled several steps down the stairway.

The jewelry was antique heirlooms for the most part, Mrs. Allen's mother, who recently died, had given to her.

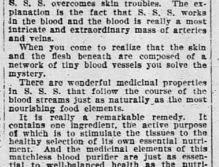
Most Skin Trouble Readily Overcome

The Active Principle of a Famous Remedy Works Wonders.



Many people have marveled the way S. S. S. overcomes skin troubles. The explanation is the fact that S. S. S. works in the blood and the blood is really a most intricate and extraordinary mass of arteries and veins.

When you come to realize that the skin and the flesh beneath are composed of a network of tiny blood vessels you solve the mystery.

There are wonderful medicinal properties in S. S. S. that follow the course of the blood streams just as naturally as the most nourishing food elements.

It is really a remarkable remedy. It contains one ingredient, the entire purpose of which is to stimulate the tissues to the healthy selection of its own essential nutriment, and the medicinal elements of this matchless blood purifier are just as essential to well-balanced health as the nutritious elements of the meats, grains, fats and sugars of our daily food.

Not one drop of minerals or drugs is used in its preparation. Ask for S. S. S. and just basket upon having it. And if you desire skillful advice and counsel upon any matter concerning the blood and skin, write to the Medical Department, The Swift Specific Co., 529 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga.

Do not allow some zealous clerk's eloquence over something "just as good" as S. S. S. to fool you with the same old mineral drugs. Beware of all substitutes. Insist upon S. S. S.

Pass Prohibitive Tax To Bar Phrenologists And Readers of Palms

A prohibitive tax of $300 was placed on palm-readers and phrenologists upon the recommendation of Chairman C. W. Smith and the tax committee, yesterday afternoon.

Some months ago Councilman Claude Ashley put through an ordinance which prohibited palm-readers operating in Atlanta under any terms, but it is stated that recently a clique who call themselves phrenologists have infested the city and are doing just what the Ashley ordinance prohibits but under a different name.

The committee offered the new tax ordinance for 1914 with only a few changes. A tax of $14 placed on automobiles and carriages before the ordinance was printed, is included. The ordinance also includes a tax of $40 on peddlers of fruits, produce, poultry or commission merchandise. The ordinance does not interfere with Confederate Veterans or farmers who peddle their own products.

MILLIONS TO PUSH VOCATION TRAINING

Measure Authorizing Federal Grants to States Before Congress--States Must Act to Secure the Appropriations.

Washington, June 1.—National grants to the states for vocational education are recommended in the report of the commission on national aid to vocational education, which was submitted to congress today. A bill authorizing these grants was introduced in the senate today by Senator Hoke Smith, Georgia, chairman of the commission, and in the house by Representative Dudley M. Hughes, of Georgia.

Seven million dollars, as a maximum annual appropriation for this purpose, is advocated by the commission. This amount is to be reached by a graduated scale in the year 1924 and is to be made annually thereafter. It is provided that in the year 1915, $1,500,000 be appropriated and that each year thereafter a stipulated increase made until the maximum is attained.

This money is to be expended under careful federal supervision for the salaries of teachers, supervisors, directors of agricultural subjects and of teachers of trade and industrial subjects, and for the training of teachers of vocational subjects.

For Agricultural Teachers.

For the group of agricultural teachers it is recommended that $500,000 be appropriated for the fiscal year 1915-16. This annual amount is to be increased at the rate of $250,000 a year until a total of $2,000,000 annually is reached in the fiscal year 1921-22. After that year the increase is to be at the rate of $500,000 a year until a maximum appropriation of $3,000,000 annually is reached in 1923-24. This sum is to be distributed to the states in the proportion which their rural population bears to the total rural population in the United States, not including outlying possessions, according to the last preceding census.

For the salaries of teachers of trade and industrial subjects, a similar schedule is proposed. In this case the percentage of urban population is made the basis of distribution.

For the training of teachers of vocational subjects the sum of $500,000 is appropriated for the fiscal year 1915-16; $700,000 for 1916-17; $900,000 for 1917-18, and $1,000,000 for the year 1918-19, and annually thereafter. The percentage of total population is made the basis of the apportionment.

To give the national government supervision over the expenditure of these grants a federal board of vocational education is to be created. It is to have power to co-operate with the states in carrying out the plan of national grants for vocational education. It is to make studies, investigations, and reports with particular reference to their use in aiding the states in the establishment of vocational schools and classes and in giving instruction in vocational subects. This board is to consist of the postmaster general, secretary of the interior, secretary of agriculture, secretary of commerce and secretary of labor. The commissioner of education is to act as its executive officer. An appropriation of 2,000,000 a year to finance its activities is provided.

What States Must Do.

To secure the benefits of these appropriations the state must accept, through its legislature, the provisions of the bill and create or designate a state board, consisting of not less than three members, with power to co-operate with the federal board. The state board of education or other body having charge of the administration of public education in the state, or any state board having charge of vocational education, if the state so elects, may be designated as the state board for the purposes of this act. The state board must prepare plans showing the kinds of vocational education for which it is proposed that the appropriation shall be used; the kinds of school and equipment, courses of study, methods of instruction and qualifications of teachers. These plans must be approved by the federal board.

Appropriations for salaries of teachers must be devoted exclusively to this purpose by the state board. For each dollar of federal money expended for this item the state or local community or both must expend an equal amount. The expenditure must be made under a plan of supervision set up by the state board and approved by the federal board.

To secure the benefits of the appropriation for salaries the state board must meet definite requirements in its plan for agricultural education. This education must be given in schools and classes supported and controlled by the public. Its purpose must be to fit for useful employment. It must be less than college grade and designed to meet the needs of persons over 14 years of age, who have entered upon, or who are preparing to enter upon the work of the farm or of the farm home as a vocation. The state or local community or both must provide the necessary plant and equipment determined upon by the state board with the approval of the federal board. The schools must provide for directed or supervised practice in agriculture, either on the home farm or on the farm provided for by the school for at least six months a year.

Trade and Industrial Education.

Substantially the same requirements must be met by the state board in its plan for trade and industrial education. The instruction for persons who have not entered upon employment must extend over a period not less than nine months in the year and not less than thirty hours a week. At least half of the time of such instruction must be given to actual practice on a useful or productive basis, either in the school shop or in a commercial shop. One-third of the money expended for salaries must be applied to part-time schools or classes. Sixteen years is made the maximum entrance requirement for evening industrial schools whose instruction must be supplemental to the daily employment.

Similar requirements obtain in regard to the plan of the state board for training of vocational subjects. Such training must be given only to persons who have had adequate vocational experience or contact in the line of work for which they are preparing themselves as teachers or who are acquiring this experience or contact as part of their training.

The state must appoint its state treasurer as custodian of the federal grant. If any portion of the fund annually allotted to any state has not been expended for the purpose provided for, a sum equal to this portion shall be deducted from the next succeeding annual allotment. The federal board may withhold any allotment whenever it shall appear that the money is not being expended by the state for the purpose provided. If any portion of the money received by the state custodian is diminished, lost or misapplied, it must be replaced by the state. Until this is done no subsequent appropriation will be made to the state. It is specifically provided that no money shall be applied to the purchase, erection or repair of buildings or equipment, or for the purchase or rental of land.

Precedent for Speed and Economy.

For speed and economy in preparing a report this commission has established a precedent. It has made its report on time. It has done its work in less than two months. Of an original appropriation of $15,000 it has returned a substantial amount.

The commission was created on January 20 with instructions to consider the subject of national aid for vocational education and to report its findings and recommendations not later than June 1. It organized April 2 by electing Senator Hoke Smith, of Georgia, as chairman. On April 17, Ernest A. Wreidt, director of the Public Education association, New York, was appointed secretary. The full commission met practically every morning thereafter. A subcommittee of the five non-congressional members was in session every afternoon and frequently at night. Despite the limited time at its disposal the commission made an exhaustive study of the subject through questionnaris, public hearings and bibliography. The members of the commission served without compensation.

FARMER'S WIFE TOO ILL TO WORK

A Weak, Nervous Sufferer Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Kasota, Minn. — "I am glad to say that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done more for me than anything else, and I had the best physician here. I was so weak and nervous that I could not do my work and suffered with pains low down in my right side for a year or more. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and now I feel like a different person. I believe there is nothing like Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for weak women and young girls, and I would be glad if I could influence anyone to try the medicine, for I know it will do all and much more than it is claimed to do." — Mrs. Clara Franks, R. F. D. No. 1, Maplecrest Farm, Kasota, Minn.

Women who suffer from those distressing ills peculiar to their sex should be convinced of the ability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore their health by the many genuine and truthful testimonials we are constantly publishing in the newspapers.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.

GREAT CHANGE IN TWENTY YEARS

Shaw Lady Looks Younger Instead of Older With Lapse of Time.

Shaw, Miss.—Mrs. V. N. Smith, of this city, makes an interesting statement of her experiences, as follows: "Twenty-nine years ago I contracted a serious form of womanly trouble. We called in our family physician, and he treated me for it, but it seemed to do no good. It went on into other bad troubles, and I commenced taking all kinds of medicines to see if I could get relief, but to no avail.

I suffered with that trouble up until eleven years ago, when I read about Cardui, the woman's tonic, and bought a full treatment. It relieved me at once, and after taking the full treatment I am now well and stout.

I sent my brother, whom I had not seen in twenty years, one of my photographs, and he wrote me that I looked younger than when he last saw me."

For more than 50 years, Cardui has been relieving women's sufferings, and building weak women up to health and strength. No other tonic gives the same results as Cardui. No other woman's medicine has the long record of success in treating cases of womanly weakness and disease.

Cardui will surely help you. Try it.

HOOPER ALEXANDER GIVES TO STUDENTS EXAM LASTING WEEK

United States District Attorney Hooper Alexander has made a new record for the giving of final examinations in the Atlanta Law school. He gave Monday to his class on "Corporation Law," an examination that will last a solid week, allowing the students to take the examination home and bring their finished papers to him next Monday, signing a pledge that no aid was received from fellow students or from outside persons.

So searching is the examination, however, involving practical questions requiring hours and hours of investigation in digests, law encyclopedias and judicial decisions, that Mr. Alexander told the class Monday that they could easily spend the entire week in working out the examination and then not exhaust the investigation. He said that he would allow them the whole week, so that each man could put just as much time on it as he desired.

Both the junior and the senior classes are in the midst of examination now, and the graduation exercises of the law school will bring an end to the term on June 15.

HATCHER SUCCEEDS RICH ON BOARD OF EDUCATION

W. H. Terrell Opposed for Re-election But Wins Place Over V. O. Rankin.

Harvey Hatcher, ex-councilman from the second ward, was elected by council yesterday to fill a place on the board of education caused by the retirement of Walter Rich, and elected W. H. Terrell, of the first ward, to serve another term.

Ex-Councilman Hatcher's name went before council unopposed, but a contest was started against Commissioner Terrell when Councilman Colcord offered the name of V. O. Rankin in opposition to the first ward delegation choice nominated by Alderman Seawright.

Terrell received 15 votes and Rankin 12.

AT LAST RAIN COMES; MORE EXPECTED SOON

Weather Prediction for Today, However, Is "Fair With Temperature Not Over 90."

There was a big shower yesterday that hurried pedestrians to shelter and drenched those who didn't. It lasted for thirty minutes in the morning, after which the sun broke through the clouds in all the splendor it has shown for these past many days of dry weather.

It was only a summer shower, however, and not near enough to satisfy the parched and thirsty soil of the territory that has been arid so long. Weather Forecaster von Herrmann stated that the probabilities were that rain would fall spasmodically for the next few days.

The following is the latest weather prophecy:

"Fair weather is predicted for Tuesday, but the drift of air will be from the north, and the temperature during the day will not be so high, probably not exceeding 90 degrees. Some cloudiness is expected."

Strikers Say Only 100 Of 1,800 Operatives At Mills Are at Work

That only 100 of the 1,800 operatives employed by the Fulton Bag and Cotton mills are now at work, on account of the walk-out at the mills, which began about three weeks ago, when four eighty operatives were discharged, was declared Monday morning by labor leaders at an experience meeting of the strikers. Some 400 strikers were present at the gathering, which was held in the Odd Fellows' hall, on Moore street.

Miss Alice Simpkins, an operative, told of being insulted while at her machine by one of the men in charge of the plant, who, she said, brushed rudely against her. Mrs. Alice Carlton declared that she had been working for the company thirty-six years—ever since she could stand on a box at her work—and that the officials told her she was the most skilled worker in the mills and one of the bricks in the establishment, but she testified that she was making only $6 a week and had rarely ever made more. Mrs. Lula Church testified to practically the same thing, only she had been working thirty years.

Charles A. Miles, of New York, general organizer of the American Federation of Labor, and Mrs. E. B. Smith, well known Atlanta labor leader, were principal speakers among some fifteen.

The speakers told of the aid offered the strikers by most of the labor organizations in the city and the rapidity with which others are coming to their rescue.

They declared that Police Chief James L. Beavers had refused to arrest any striker for talking on the streets, and had told the strikers that if they were arrested for such by an officer they would just have a free automobile ride.

S. B. Marks, president of the Georgia branch of the Federation of Labor, said the mill officials declared they would refuse to see an arbitration committee, even if headed by Governor John M. Slaton. Some of the women testified that they would never return to the Fulton mills as long as certain men were in charge.

The former operatives will hold another experience meeting this morning at 10 o'clock at the Odd Fellows' hall.

The socialists of Atlanta will hold a sympathetic meeting in behalf of the striking textile workers next Wednesday night on the lawn of the Temple of Labor, at 112 Trinity avenue. The strikers have been invited, and the colony of socialists of South Bend will also be present. Addresses will be delivered by Charles A. Miles, a prominent socialist of New York, and Mrs. Minnie Wyman, who is connected with the socialist party of Cleveland.

Police Chief's Action Sustained by Council Over Lee's Objection

As the result of a tilt he had with Chief James L. Beavers, of the police department, Councilman Jesse B. Lee offered a resolution in council yesterday urging the police board to make an investigation of the chief's action in the matter of placing police protection around the property of the Fulton mills where a strike is in progress.

Council voted against Councilman's Lee's resolution, members taking the position that in view of the fact that the police are being called on to preserve order that now is not the proper time to indulge in personal differences. The resolution was tabled.

It will be recalled that Councilman Lee took exception to Chief Beavers sending men to guard the mills during the strike. He called on Chief Beavers and asked him to withdraw the police, and when the chief refused, Councilman Lee demanded to know by what authority the police were being loaned to a private corporation to preserve its property. Apparently, the interview with the chief did not satisfy Councilman Lee, so he took the matter to council with the above result.

METHODIST CHURCHES ARE PLANNING REVIVAL

The Methodist churches of the city are planning an evangelistic campaign of six weeks' duration to be held in the near future. The plans are yet tentative, but will probably include daily services in all the Methodist churches with sermons by the leading evangelists of the country.

EXPOSITION PHOTOS ATTRACT ATTENTION

The J. M. High company is exhibiting in the Whitehall street window a framed photograph of the exhibit of the French Market coffee as was made at the Atlanta exposition in 1895; also a cased duplicate of the gold medal awarded by the New Orleans Coffee company, of New Orleans, at the same time. These pieces are much admired, and bring back to many the remembrance of that great exposition.

Sues Former Marshal.

In the United States court yesterday, Judge Newman presiding, a $15,000 suit for personal damages filed more than a year ago by Bob Heath, a resident of Dawson county, against Walter H. Johnson, then United States marshal for the northern district of Georgia, and the United States Fidelity and Guarantee company, his official bondsmen, was put on trial. A jury was secured during the morning, and several witnesses were presented. The plaintiff, Bob Heath, sets out in his papers that on March 29, 1912, Marshal Johnson sent W. S. Kemp, one of his deputy's to Dawson county to arrest him. While the prisoner was being conveyed to the Ellijay jail, he asserts, that one of his legs was crushed and that he was otherwise permanently injured because of the careless driving of Deputy Marshal Kemp, who had him in custody.

TECH—AN INVESTMENT.

The campaign to raise $500,000 for the expansion of the Georgia School of Technology is now fairly under way.

The promoters of the movement have the right to expect that the industrial interests of Georgia will be the heaviest contributors. In other states with large, growing or rudimentary industrial interests, manufacturers recognize the value of a thorough, modernly equipped technological institution to which they can look to supply, first, trained workers; second, research and laboratory facilities bearing on the technical development of manufacturing.

In these directions, the proper enlargement of Tech has a paramount influence on the present and future of Georgia, industrially speaking. During the twenty-six years of its phenomenal career, the school has quickened industry and offered a recruiting station for men capable of solving Georgia's manufacturing problems in a spirit commensurate with the times.

What the school has done in the past is only an earnest of what it will be called on to do in the future as Georgia's multitudinous manufacturing possibilities begin to unfold to the stimulating touch of capital and enterprise. Under existing conditions, the school is hard put to it to meet the functions it should discharge. At a radical handicap with the institutions of other states, it is doing splendid work, but cannot continue to do so in the future unless its plant is expanded to fit the demands made on it by an increasing growth of state industrial activity and enrollments.

Friends of the school in New York have offered to donate $100,000 of modern machinery, if the state will supply a building to house it. A portion of the fund to be raised in the impending campaign will be immediately expended to meet this requirement. The remainder will be judiciously spent to modernize the school in every respect and anticipate the exigencies of growth.

Whatever the manufacturers of Georgia and the people generally of Georgia contribute to the Tech, will be in the nature of a business investment. Admittedly, a large part of the future of this state lies along industrial lines, almost as much so as is agriculture. Tech should be fitted for its strategic part in the economic scheme.

READY FOR HOME RULE.

It remains to be seen whether the actual promulgation of home rule will be followed by the brawls and semi-civil war in Ulster predicted by the unionists and by the extreme Ulsterites.

From this distance it looks as though Bonar Law, the unionist parliamentary leader, and Sir Edward Carson, the radical Ulsterite, have been playing energetic political poker with Asquith and the liberal party.

The Ulsterites know, if they know anything at all, that home rule in some form was sooner or later inevitable. They know, too, that no type of home rule could please both Roman Catholic and Protestant Ireland. The most practical compromise would be one that redeemed England's long-standing promises to Ireland with a minimum of friction. And that appears to be the effect of the bill which now becomes automatically a law.

We surmise there is going to be less violence in Ulster than anticipated. Much, if not all, of the fear of church domination is groundless. As time wears on this fact will be made manifest. This, together with the disclosure of the political motives back of the unionist opposition to home rule, should have a pronounced influence in quieting the situation.

At any rate, and for better or worse, the situation is on the knees of the gods. The thing for which the devout Irishman has for decades been praying is almost accomplished. The prospective ending of a long and embittering struggle will be almost as jubilantly acclaimed in this as in the old country.

A MASTER MEDIATOR.

The Constitution respectfully suggests to the bewildered board of mediation at Niagara Falls the retention of Atlanta's master-mediator—none other than Dan Carey, general manager of parks and diplomat extraordinary. Dan has returned from his animal pilgrimage to New York city to buy animals for the Grank park zoo. He landed on the dock at the Terminal station to find himself the center of a hurricane as to styles in men's bathing suits which should be permissible at Piedmont Park lake. With one soothing, decisive but conciliatory sentence, Dan settled the whole heated imbroglio. An issue that threatened to become state-wide, and that already had whipped a metropolis into fury, was calmed into serenity; petitions with thousands of names were called in; insurrection, rebellion, the short and ugly word, acrimony and general displays of the artistic temperament were brought under subjugation.

How did Dan work it? Simplest thing you know.

"Men may not wear at Piedmont lake what is known as the 'athletic' sleeveless bathing suit; they may wear the sleeveless suit wherein the eyelet stops at the shoulder, just where the seam that joins a man's shirt to his shirt-sleeve begins and ends." Simplicity itself. The suit authorized by Dan does not, like the athletic suit, curve around under the arms and over the chest, displaying half the back and torso. But it does give free play to the arm and shoulder muscles, without enough display to shock or offend the most shrinking soul. The moment Dan handed down the pronunciamento, the tumult died. Here was a solution the sleeveless brigade wanted and the enemies of the sleeveless brigade could not criticise. Everybody was happy and the late unpleasantness is remembered only as affording General Manager Carey an opportunity for exhibiting that diplomacy that has made him famous.

Congratulations to Dan. May he be compelled to leave the city as seldom as possible. Every time he departs from our esteemed midst, something happens to the parks, or a snarl of some kind springs up and demands his sunny and effectual diplomacy. Obviously, since Dan is the only man with the proper taste in animals, and since he must make annual pilgrimages to lasso recruits to the zoo, we must at periods anticipate riffles on the smooth park situation. There is comfort in the thought that as soon as he returns, he irons out the trouble and all goes lovely as a battery of marriage bells. We wish we could spare him long enough to bring peace in Mexico. Dan could tame even the fiery and obnoxious Villa.

AIDED BY THE WEATHER.

The latest guess of the politically wise is that the senate will reach a vote on the Panama canal tolls this week, repealing the subsidy grab, and that the remainder of the legislation will be cleaned up by July 20, allowing the various statesmen to go home and giving the country the rest of which it stands so badly in need.

We devoutly hope the forecast is well founded. So often have the hopes of the judicious been raised only to be dashed that we cross our fingers and knock on wood each time congress exhibits symptoms approaching concentrated common sense.

Perhaps the hot weather, and the thermometer is especially energetic in Washington, will do what expediency and sound counsel fail to do. Heat is a great facilitator of business, political and otherwise. If it spurs our laggard legislators into winding up the congressional program, it will prove a genuinely constructive force.

Still, the congressman who can't come home has no explaining to do.

Spain will be hard put to it to find anything for the Colonel to discover.

William Rockefeller will go down to history as the man of the conveniently lost voice.

At the safe distance of 3,000 miles Sir Arthur Conan Doyle is quoted as saying the English militants should be lynched.

With the flight of a few more generals Huerta won't have any army left.

An eminent English scientist says the world is drying up, but he will never get the political orators to believe it.

Huerta has received another supply of "ammunition." If that man doesn't swear off he will never know when the war is over.

Huerta is the biggest front page grafter of them all.

Pretty warm weather for so many candidates to be running for exercise.

Evidently the song writers did considerable digging for Panama Canal lyrics, for nearly all of them seem in hard lines.

Farewell, city mansion!
Welcome country ranch,
Knee-deep in the branch,
boys, knee-deep in the branch!
Sunlight on the meadows,
Blossoms in the lane,
Hand-in-hand with sweet-hearts of the old days again!

Yonder in the old porch, dim-seen through the pines,
Hummin'bird a-browsin' in the mornin'glory vines;
Seems to send a welcome down the path to me
With a mockin'bird a-singin' in the china-berry tree.

Long since we left it, weary ways to roam,
But a mother's in the doorway, and calls her children home;
And we drink its gracious sunlight, with eyes that feel the rain,
Once more little children, going home again!

Lost Their Rain Influence.

"For a month past," says The Adams Enterprise, "we've had three holy brethren prayin' for rain, and never a drop have we seen. Yesterday they flung up, one of them explaining that for some unknown reason they had lost their influence with the rain-angels. We are now hopeless of ever getting any, and the sinners that are swearing as the weather only add to its heat. Lord, help us all!"

Pride of Poverty.

The Independence Reporter tells this story:

"A charity worker visited an unfortunate family in a poverty stricken neighborhood several times. On every visit she was annoyed by groups of neighbor women who stared at her and whispered among themselves. The benefactress finally said to the woman of the house: 'Your neighbors seem very curious to know who and what I am. Did you ever tell them?' 'Indeed, I did not,' was the reply. 'I told them you was one of my dressmaker and let it go at that.'"

Lots of fun in the hot or cold,
Just be patient—the rest is told
In the singing sweet of the heart that goes
Happy, whatever the weather blows."

COMETS.

A comet is a large and luminous head backed up with nothing but a few million miles of tail. This would make the comet a great natural curiosity if it were alive and lived on earth. But the comet is an astronomical phenomenon and is usually observed only in the headlines of our leading dailies. Everyone knows about comets, but few have seen them except the earnest hardworking astronomers who spend their nights roaming the illimitable either with a single-barreled telescope, weighing and registering new-born constellations and announcing the arrival and departure of regularly scheduled celestial bodies in words that have to be taken apart like a fishrod in order to be carried in a suit case.

Comets are distinguished by their impressive appearance when they can be seen and by their wandering disposition. The comet travels from solar system to solar system, making a regular business of calling at the faithfulness of a grocery salesman. But a comet only visits the trade once in fifty to fifty thousand years. This is its great advantage. By the time it comes back the descendants of its customers have forgotten all complaints.

The most celebrated comet working this territory at present is Halley's comet. In 1909 it made its regular visit, and as those who had seen it seventy-five years ago had almost all died, its advance agents were able to work up an immense interest in its arrival. It turned out to be a frayed fraud of irregular habits and no brilliancy, and every one was dissatisfied. But in another seventy-five years it will draw the same old crowd.

No comet has come near enough to the earth to allow the scientist to cut off a sample from its tail, but our most expert authorities say that it is made up of almost inconceivable tenuity, like the plot of a musical comedy, and could be packed in a suitcase like the costumes of the same. A comet's head is sometimes hundreds of thousands of miles in diameter, and this fact often creates great confusion, as visiting comets travel without dispatchers' orders and do not turn out for anything. However, astronomers assure us that comets' heads are mostly gaseous, intermingled with small solid particles a few hundred miles in diameter. This should be a great comfort to all good dodgers.

BUTTER.

Butter is a lubricant which enables bread to go down easily.

Butter is produced by the cow, with the assistance of man. The cow turns it over to man in the shape of cream, and man turns the cream into butter by churning it violently or by shipping it over a poor railroad.

Once upon a time the cow was of great importance in the farming world. Now she is only a minor factor. Years ago when the cow produced her cream it was immediately made into butter by the industrious farmer's wife and was taken to town, where it was sold the next day for twenty cents a pound. Science and business have now perfected the art of butter making, however, and the cow is now entirely out of range of the consumer. By the time cream has reached the creamery, under contract, and has been made into butter, with the wholesaler, and has been priced by the Elgin board of trade and has been sold to the grocery combination, it costs forty cents a pound. Thus man with his ineffable genius has produced as much value in butter by handing it as the cow has by producing it. We should all take off our hats to man and should pity the cow for her rustic simplicity.

Butter in its natural state is smooth, firm, greasy and cream colored. However, man likes his butter yellow, so it is colored by the butter maker. The kindly United States congress has made yellow a natural monopoly for butter, and the maker of oleomargarine who tries to deceive us by substitute for butter for those who can't afford to pay jewelry prices for it has to make it white or red or pink or green. If he makes it yellow he has to pay a tax of ten cents a pound. This is indeed a free country, as the poor man often observes as he forks over his dime for the privilege of eating the rich man's shade of bread roofing.

The price of butter is a great grief to all, and the worst of it is the poor cow does not get much of it. Cows are getting scarcer owing to the high price of beef, and the man who receives the butter in his left hand and forks it over to the consumer with his right hand buys a new and more costly automobile every year.

Some Little Talks by George Matthew Adams

IDEA OWNERSHIP.

Ideas are for the Strong. There is no such thing as true plagiarism. There is not an idea originated that has not already been expressed somewhere by someone at some time. So that no one is sole owner of an idea or a Thought.

The Thoughts and Ideas that you create out of your own personality belong to you only so long as you express and work them out with greater realism than anyone else.

The Thought of the world will never go into bankruptcy, nor will any receivership ever sit at its council table. In your strong and definite organism live the elements that are able to create virile Thoughts and expression of endless benefit to Humanity, and at the time you feel that you have given out most from your Thought toll, at that moment you will be most enriched.

Limit your Thinking. Concentrate the marvelous forces of your Brain upon Ideas and Subjects most helpful and inspiring to people. The little every day Thoughts slip along their way. But do not neglect—silently and alone—to give long hours of Thinking and planning to the creation of the best and cleanest and strongest Thoughts that you can maneuver, muster and carry into Expression Victory.

OFF PARADE.

Someone has said that "no man is a hypocrite at his play." What a shame that the world doesn't play at least half of its time! Off Parade the great man finds his relaxation and he discovers to what proportions he is given over to Greatness and to the expression of his personality.

Play brings out Character. A great newspaper man once told the writer that if he wanted to learn the inside character of a man he would take him out for a week of trout fishing. It is at Play—a long way off from the crowd—that a man reveals himself and lays himself out for exhibition. And it is then that he is as he is, both Good and Bad.

So that if you want to improve the opinion you would like people to have of you, get Off Parade—and Play. But Play alone occasionally so that when you return to the colorings of your Character and in fresh solitude see your own faults and shortcomings as well as your own strong points and be enabled to correct the Bad and increase for usefulness the Good.

One Point Admitted.

DAILY GRIST from the STATE'S POLITICAL GRIND

GOVERNOR SLATON'S COMMUNICATION THE POLITICAL SENSATION OF WEEK

Governor John M. Slaton's communication to the people of Georgia, which appeared Sunday, in which he vigorously assailed the political records of two of his opponents, Chairman Tom Hardwick and Hon. Thomas S. Felder, and charged them with entering a combine to defeat him, was the political sensation of the week. As was to be expected, it brought instant rejoinders from the gentlemen attacked.

Mr. Hardwick, who spent a few hours in the city Monday on his way to Senoia, where he delivered an address last night, gave out a statement in which he challenged the governor and Mr. Felder to a joint, or rather a three-cornered, debate.

Mr. Felder was at Morgan when he read Governor Slaton's caustic comments on his record and he gave out a statement in which he charged him with lack of courage.

Governor Slaton was out of the city Monday and no statement from him could be obtained.

Mr. Hardwick's open letters to Governor Slaton and Mr. Felder follow:

To Mr. Slaton.

"Hon. John M. Slaton, Atlanta, Ga.—My Dear Sir: In view of recent developments, and because the public is entitled to full and accurate knowledge of the issues between the various candidates to fill the unexpired term of Senator Bacon, I wish to invite you to join me in a series of joint discussions of those issues before the people of Georgia. I have addressed a similar invitation to Hon. Thomas S. Felder, and think, participated in by all three of us. I did not address a similar invitation to Messrs. Hutchins and Cooper, because it would be impracticable for all five of us to participate in the discussion without lengthening unnecessarily the discussion and prolonging it beyond the endurance of the audience. I consider a series of joint discussions, at which the candidates for governor shall be present, to be the most effective way to present the issues to the people, and on Saturdays during its session. However, I am thoroughly willing to leave all details as to the number, time and place and terms of discussion to a committee of three, one to be selected by each of us—and if you are willing to this arrangement, I name Hon. John T. West, of Thomson, Ga., as my friend to confer with any friend you may name.

"As I will be in Washington, D. C., for a few days after Wednesday of this week, please address your reply to me there.

"With assurances of personal esteem, I am,

Very truly yours,
"THOMAS W. HARDWICK."

To Mr. Felder.

"Hon. Thomas S. Felder, Macon, Ga.—Dear Sir: I have today sent to Hon. John M. Slaton an invitation to participate in a series of joint discussions on the issues of the senatorial campaign. I believe, as I am sure you do, that the people of Georgia are entitled to have the issues fully and fairly discussed before the vote is taken, and that they are able to weigh us all and judge us all if we all meet in fair discussion of the issues, man to man, and face to face. I am sure we could conduct such a discussion on a high and honorable plane free from personal rancor or bitterness. It seems to me that it would only be fair that all three of us participate in these debates, if they can be arranged so that if possible we should have a number of these, one in each congressional district. However, I am willing to leave all the details as to the number, time, place and terms of these debates to a committee of three delegates, one to be selected by each of us, and I hereby designate as my friend to serve on such committee, and to confer with the gentlemen named by Governor Slaton and yourself, Hon. John T. West, of Thomson.

"As I will return to Washington for a few days after Wednesday of this week, please address your reply to me there.

"With assurances of personal esteem, I am,

Very truly yours,
"THOMAS W. HARDWICK.

"Atlanta, Ga., June 1, 1914."

Mr. Felder's Statement.

Mr. Felder's statement follows:

"In reference to Governor Slaton's proclamation which appeared in yesterday's papers I have this to say:

"In his original announcement for the United States senate he submitted his candidacy to the people of Georgia on the platform that he was a native Georgian and the statement that his creed rested in the established principles of democracy, coupled with the politician's unfailing reference to economy in the administration and the promotion of agricultural interests.

"It is evident that he has reached the conclusion that he cannot ride into office in this contest on these generalities, and he now submits, and puts forward as his own, measures which I advocated in my opening speech, delivered in Perry more than a month ago, and which I have since been stressing in many sections of the state.

"In the Perry speech I insisted that federal judges should be appointed for a definite period of years instead of for life; that relief should be given the farmers of Georgia from prosecutions in the federal courts for alleged violations of the peonage statute; and that the national government should make appropriations for the improvement of the public roads of the state.

Lacking in Courage.

"These measures the governor now says he will advocate. Mr. Hardwick, owing to the course which our astute chief executive is pursuing, like keeps his ear close to the ground, and he has heard the voice of the people approving my position on these questions. I believe they are popular. His action in this instance is fairly illustrative of his whole political life. Having lacked the courage to take the initiative, and though he boasts of twenty years service to the people and says he is running on a platform of tried fitness he cannot claim one constructive measure of his own.

"The governor's charge that Congressman Hardwick and I are co-operating in an effort to defeat him is the merest clap-trap, and is intended as a plea for sympathy for the under dog. The fact is that Mr. Hardwick and I have been working actively in the contest for the senatorship several weeks before the governor announced his candidacy and before it became known that the governor had a string tied to Senator West.

"The governor stated at the opening of his campaign that he would not make any political speeches or indulge in joint debates for the reason that it would precipitate a contest of mud-slinging and billingsgate. Shielded, however, by the respect always accorded the occupant of the governor's office he begins the slinging of mud from the governor's chair. I shall not answer him in kind, for it has been my deliberate purpose from the opening of this campaign to conduct it on a high plane, leaving out personalities and refusing to win this high office on such merit as I may possess, and not on the weaknesses of my adversaries.

"It does not make me any better man—any more capable of filling the office of United States senator, by showing my opponent to be unfit. My speeches throughout the state have been substantially a repetition of my first speech delivered at Perry, which appeared in the public press. The governor's charge that I have attacked him from numerous angles is untrue. I have not made such attacks. His assumption that such charges have been made by me evidently is based on the fact that he knows himself to be vulnerable.

"Discussing the geographical situation, about which I have said nothing, the governor wearies us with a eulogy of his impartiality as a public officer, and at the same time states how partial he has been to the people of south Georgia in appointing a United States senator, two judges of the court of appeals and an attorney general from this section. This action is not surprising at all to any one who is familiar with Governor Slaton's political methods. He realizes that he is weak in south Georgia, and that fact explains his partiality to this section.

"The governor wants to be senator. He appointed a temporary administrator on the senatorial estate upon the death of Senator Bacon and now urges the fact of such appointment as a reason why he should be named as permanent administrator by the people.

The Depot Bill.

"He charges me with opposing a bill to erect a new depot on the state's property in Atlanta, but failed to tell you the nature of the bill. The bill which I opposed proposed to appropriate funds in the state treasury which, under the constitution, could not be used for any purpose except the payment of the bonded debt of the state. I assisted in the defeat of this bill because it was in flagrant violation of the constitution. The charge that my position was influenced by prejudice toward Atlanta is childish.

"He expresses the opinion that I should not be elected to the senate because I resigned my office during the pendency of litigation between the state and certain copper companies located across the state line of Tennessee. This litigation has been pending in one shape or another since 1906, and I was the third attorney general to participate in it. I purposely delayed my resignation until after the motion dealing with one phase of the case had been passed upon by the supreme court of the United States, and left the suit in good shape for my successor to carry on. The court did not overrule the motion as stated by the governor, but directed that testimony be taken. The taking of testimony under the order was not to begin until the first day of June, a month and a half after my successor had entered upon the discharge of my resignation, as contrasted with the governor's course in holding one office and exercising its powers while devoting his energies to seeking another, I leave to the people to pass upon.

"The governor's proclamation in the drafting of which during the past few weeks he has enjoyed the able assistance of Campbell Wyly, Hall Clark, Ellis Linn and Morrow, is an unmistakable indication that things are going badly with the governor."

MANY CITIZENS OF COMMERCE TO URGE HIGH DORSEY TO RUN

Solicitor Hugh M. Dorsey is in receipt of a petition from Commerce, urging him to make the race for governor. The petition is signed by 217 well-known citizens of that place. It reads as follows:

"We, the undersigned, believe it is necessary that the state of Georgia be represented by men of ability, worth and high standing in our state who are able to foster wise and necessary legislation and prevent that which is injudicious and harmful.

"We realize that executive service will require of any sacrifice on your part, but believing that the duty of public service well done will be to you a sufficient reward, we respectfully request that you become a candidate for governor in the approaching democratic primary. We sincerely pledge our most earnest and cordial support to you."

John R. Cooper, candidate for the United States senate to fill the unexpired term of the late A. O. Bacon, spent a few hours in the city Sunday and Monday. He has been extensively over the state. In commenting on the Dorsey boom, he said:

"If Mr. Dorsey should announce he would sweep the state. I never saw such enthusiasm for a man in my life."

EYES STILL POINTED TOWARD BROWN; SPECULATION RIFE REGARDING HIM

No single item of news was read with more interest than the statement of former Governor Joseph M. Brown that he would not engage in discussions of John M. Slaton for the senate. However, among those who really know the situation there never was any serious question that he would make this race. The question now is:

Will he run for the senate against Hoke Smith, or will he enter the gubernatorial contest? Mr. Brown is receiving letters urging him to make both races. June 1 was confidently predicted as the date when he would make an announcement. Well, June 1 has come and gone and all he has said is what he will not do. Perhaps in the next statement he will go a step further and say what he will not run for governor or for senator, which will leave but one place open. However, it is all speculation as to what Mr. Brown will do. His closest friends are as much mystified as the rankest outsider. Time alone will tell the tale.

ANDERSON STILL BEING ATTACKED BECAUSE HE IS SAVANNAH MAN

Savannah, Ga., June 1.—(Special.)—The attacks on J. Randolph Anderson because he is a Savannah man continue to feature the gubernatorial race in this section.

Several influential papers of south Georgia have attacked Mr. Anderson on the ground that he is a Savannahian, "whereon outlawn all the qualities of these papers have gone so far as to admit that Mr. Anderson is personally equipped for the office of governor and that he is of the highest integrity, but that he is objectionable because he happens to live in Savannah.

Another charge which is munich the enemies of Mr. Anderson are using is that he holds office in and is a stockholder in a brewing company. These reports have been denied persistently, but nevertheless there are some who continue to make the charge.

Mr. Anderson returned today from a trip through the state and declares that he felt very much encouraged. Every day brings fresh assurances of support from unexpected quarters.

The two candidates for congress from the first district, Charles G. Edwards and J. W. Overstreet, scored each other pretty severely in cards published this week.

Mr. Overstreet has been over the district making speeches on his platform of "the country against the city." His charges that Mr. Edwards, the incumbent, represents Savannah and not the entire district. Mr. Edwards has met the charge in a statement and his campaign methods up to ridicule, and Mr. Overstreet came back at him with a statement which he does not believe will do much to help him.

Mr. Edwards has many friends and supporters in Gainesville who stood by him in his last race, when he came near beating the present congressman, and the race promises to be close in the field. Hon. W. A. Charters, who was for a number of years solicitor of the northeastern circuit.

A petition asking Solicitor Hugh M. Dorsey, of Atlanta, to run for governor in the coming primary is being circulated by friends of Solicitor Dorsey in this county, and at present there is several hundred names on it.

Just when the petition will be presented the solicitor is not known, but it will be mailed within a few days, it is said, by the circulators.

In addition to many warm personal friends in Gainesville and Hall county, who have known Mr. Dorsey for a number of years, he has made many warm admirers since being elected to the solicitorship of Fulton county city court.

Hon. Ernest Palmour, who will in all probability be a candidate for the state senate from Hall county, read law and practiced one time with Solicitor Dorsey, and Mr. Palmour speaks in the most laudable terms of that he knows himself to be a man and an able lawyer.

CLIFFORD WALKER ENCOURAGED BY REPORTS HE IS RECEIVING

While Clifford Walker, of Monroe, candidate for attorney general, is not making any campaign speeches, he is getting over ground about as fast as any candidate who ever went before Georgia voters. In addition to having visited many counties in middle and n6rth Georgia, Mr. Walker has been in every county on the Florida line and many of those adjoining the state. Wherever he goes he is not only meeting and shaking hands with the people, but is forming organizations to look out for his interests.

"Everything looks good to me," said Mr. Walker in passing through Atlanta to fill another south Georgia engagement. "I have been in every county down next to the Florida line and I am satisfied from what my friends tell me down there I am going to carry every one of them. I have the greatest confidence in the outcome, but in any event, at the end of the campaign I shall have acquired a knowledge of the state of Georgia which would be invaluable to any citizen of the state."

SOUTHERN WILL SPEND $14,500,000

Plan Is to Double-Track the Road From Charlotte to Atlanta and Bond Issue of $20,000,000 Is Asked of the Commission.

Application was Monday morning filed with the railroad commission by the Atlanta and Charlotte Air Line railway, which is a part of the Southern railway system, for authority to issue $20,000,000 of first mortgage bonds, the proceeds to be used in completing the double tracking of the road from Charlotte to Atlanta.

Of the issue of $20,000,000 the petition sets forth that $5,500,000 is to be used in retiring some matured bonds and $14,500,000 for the work of double-tracking and the completion of terminal facilities.

The Southern railway is already double-tracked for a distance of approximately 40 miles between Atlanta and Gainesville. It is the purpose of the road to push the work of double-tracking to Charlotte as soon as possible. When this work is completed the work of double-tracking all the way to Washington will have been completed. The actual mileage between Atlanta and Charlotte is 245 miles. Less the 40 miles completed, 223 miles remain to be finished.

The railroad commission has set June 10 as the date for the hearing on the petition.

The value of the work to the south cannot be estimated. It is regarded as one of the most important pieces of work that has come before the commission for action, and will greatly facilitate the handling of eastern business.

LABOR AND FARM UNIONS ARE GRANTED EXEMPTION

Washington, June 1.—Trade unions and farmers' unions would be specifically legalized in their existence and declared not to be combinations of restraint of trade by a paragraph which the house today incorporated in the Clayton bill to supplement the anti-trust laws.

Although it is designed only to clarify existing law, organized labor leaders say the final passage of this amendment will mark the culmination of a fight waged by them for fourteen years —since the passage of the Sherman anti-trust law—for exemption from prosecution under the laws against monopolies and restraint of trade. On a vote to perfect the labor provision the house was recorded 207 for and none against.

As adopted the provision declares that "nothing in the anti-trust law shall be construed to forbid the existence or operations" of labor unions or farmers' co-operative associations, or to forbid or restrain members of such oraganizations from "carrying out the legitimate objects thereof." Supplemental to this provision, the house adopted an amendment proposed by Representative Webb, in charge of the bill, and agreed on by organized labor representatives and the administration, which would provide that such organizations and their members shall not be "held or construed to be illegal combinations or conspiracies in restraint of trade under the anti-trust laws."

JEKYL ISLAND CLUB PLANS TO PROSECUTE PROF. HART'S SLAYER

Brunswick, Ga., June 1.—(Special.) It was stated today that R. G. Grob, superintendent of the Jekyl Island club, would arrive in the city tomorrow, coming for the purpose of investigating the murder of Prof. J. W. Hart, who was shot and killed on the southern end of the island.

It is stated that the Jekyl Island club, the millionaire organization, is going to take a part in the prosecution of Thompson and that Superintendent Grob is coming for the purpose of employing counsel to assist Solicitor Thomas in the prosecution of the case. It is more than probable that Thompson will be tried during the present month, as the Glynn superior court is now in session and he will be indicted by the grand jury during the present week.

Thompson, with the forefinger of his right hand wounded, is occupying a cell in the Glynn county jail, and, while he has refused to make a statement, he claims that he shot Professor Hart in self-defense. The only three witnesses to the crime, however, state that Professor Hart did not fire at all and did not have a revolver, therefore the state will contend that Thompson shot himself in an effort to establish his plan of self-defense.

Modern Dances Defended by Teachers; Dr. McConnell's Sermon Answered

Miss Silverman and Mr. Mason illustrate old and new dance steps; on the left the waltz, on the right the tango.

"None of the new and modern dances taught and enjoyed in the ballrooms and drawing rooms of Atlanta could be accomplished if the couples were in what is vulgarly called a 'hugging position,'" said Miss Regina Silverman, one of the teachers of the art of dancing in Atlanta, commenting upon the criticism of the modern steps by Dr. Lincoln McConnell in his sermon Sunday night at the Baptist Tabernacle.

Miss Silverman has made the teaching of the art of dancing her profession, and in defense of the new dances she posed Monday with Mr. Louis Mason, also a master of the art, and at present one of the members of the Lyric stock company.

"I am always astonished to see the opinions on the subject of dancing expressed so freely from the pulpit by gentlemen who, according to their statements, have never danced themselves and who have never seen the dances they condemn presented," continued Miss Silverman.

"It is a notable fact that those who condemn the new dances are those who, when they are queried, confess they have never seen the dances, but have been told about them.

"The present-day dances are becoming so intricate in the number of steps and sets of steps that compose them that they are combining the poetry of motion accredited to the goddess Terpsichore with the latter-day art of Delsarte, and the man or woman dancing them must have freedom of action, otherwise they cannot accomplish the dance in its varied movements.

"I must take issue with the eminent gentleman quoted in the paper as saying that the old-time dances are not popular because of the lack of closeness of position.

"Why, none of the new dances could be accomplished if the position of the old-time waltz was assumed. For instance, in the old-time waltz the lady places her hand on the gentleman's shoulder, and he places his arm around her waist to guide and support her. This one position is maintained during the entire waltz, which has but the one step. In the newer dances, it is rare that position is assumed. The best dancers in the tango and the maxixe are dependent entirely on themselves; they do not lean or drag upon the partner, and grace depends upon the single individual."

Louis Mason explained that one of the first principles of dancing was to teach students never to assume close or graceless positions.

The so-called "hugging position," Mr. Mason declared, would never be countenanced in the recognized dancing school. Again, one of the charms of dancing is the expression of one's personality and spirit in the various movements.

STEPHEN C. UPSON DIES AT HIS HOME IN ATHENS

Athens, Ga., June 1.—(Special.)—Stephen C. Upson, Sr., died at his home here this morning, aged 90 years and 7 months. The funeral will be Tuesday.

The deceased is survived by his wife and six daughters and sons: Miss Seney Upson, Miss Emily Upson, Miss Esther Upson, S. C. Upson, Jr., Frank L. Upson, all of Athens, and Ed. L. Upson, of Atlanta.

A son of the late Judge Upson for whom Upson county was named, the deceased was born in Oglethorpe county, coming to Athens twenty years ago. For years he lived in New York and half a century and more ago secured large holdings in property there—the property along Broadway and extensive holdings along the wharfs being immensely valuable. The increase in these properties and in safe investments in railroad bonds and stocks made him one of the wealthiest men in this state.

Many citizens born and reared in Athens never saw or knew him. In one of the most delightful homes, like the old country mansion of the south, he lived and saw few except intimate friends of his early days. It is said he had not visited the business section of the city but two or three times in the twenty years of his residence here—spending weeks and months with his flowers, books and his beloved violin in the evergreen-protected home.

His sons have become prominent in affairs: S. C. Upson, Jr., being solicitor of the city court, and F. L. Upson referee in bankruptcy for this territory.

members of the associations that meet at the University club and their lady friends are invited to the club Wednesday night at 8 o'clock, to the first of a number of lectures on "Oriental Politics," by Dr. Roy Emerson Curtis, A. B., Nebraska Wesleyan college, 1906; A. M., University of Wisconsin, 1908; Ph. B., University of Wisconsin, 1912; now a member of the faculty of the University of Georgia.

These lectures are designed to portray the political, economic, social and cultural factors determining the present condition of the far eastern countries; to give an understanding of the present trend of events in eastern Asia, and to convey an impression of the extensiveness of American interests and opportunities in that part of the world. The subject of the first lecture will be, "The Oriental Point of View."

Burns Case Causes New City Ordinance Guarding Witnesses

As the result of charges and intimations that detectives working under William J. Burns in the Frank case, caused witnesses to leave the city before testifying, council yesterday decided to safeguard the dignity of the recorder's court by making it a misdemeanor for persons to interfere with witnesses summoned before that tribunal.

The ordinance was introduced before the ordinance committee, and after thoroughly investigating the feasibility of the measure the committee approved it and council Monday passed it and made it an ordinance to become effective immediately. Under the ordinance, the court has power to punish persons who interfere with witnesses for contempt of court.

BIG VOTE IN FAVOR OF $750,000 BONDS IS CAST IN AUGUSTA

Augusta, Ga., June 1.—(Special.)—The vote today on the bond issue of $750,000 was surprisingly in favor of the bonds, in the fourth and fifth wards, where strong opposition had been expected, and an even break would have been all hoped for, the vote was 73 per cent of the registration in favor of the bonds. Out of a total registration of 3,013, the vote was 2,518 for bonds and 67 against.

Fire Chief Relieved Of Duty of Balloting On His Own Nominees

At the request of Chief W. B. Cummings, of the fire department, an ordinance was passed by council Monday on the recommendation of the ordinance committee, relieving the chief of the duty of voting in elections of subordinates nominated by him for service in the department.

Under a resolution recently adopted by council, the chiefs of the various departments are given absolute power in the selection of minor officers, and the only function for the boards to perform is the confirmation of the appointees of the heads.

Until the passage of the ordinance Chief Cummings was required to vote on firemen named by him for appointment.

Charley Frank Day At PonceThursday; Pels vs. Crackers

Former Bird Boss Will Be Honored by Local Fandom — Record Week-Day Crowd Must Attend.

Thursday will be Charley Frank day at Ponce de Leon park, and will also be the first visit of the New Orleans Pelicans to Atlanta this season under their new manager, Johnny Dobbs.

This game is arranged in honor of Charley Frank, who, as manager of the New Orleans team last season, defeated the Mobile Gulls in the final game of the season, thereby enabling the locals to win the Southern league pennant.

It is up to the fans to attend the game in large numbers. It is arranged especially for them to show their appreciation of what Frank did, and a poor attendance would be poor appreciation.

The handsome silver loving cup which was purchased by Atlanta fans from donations last fall will be presented to Mr. Frank at the start of the game. Let's all get out there and give three ripping cheers for the wily Dutchman at the presentation.

TRANSFERRED GAME WITH THE BILLIES

Wednesday's Game Will Be Moved Over Here—Will Start at 3 O'Clock Sharp.

The scheduled game between the Crackers and Billikens, set for Montgomery Wednesday, has been transferred to Atlanta, with the unanimous consent of the league.

This game is transferred here for the benefit of the Pensell surgists, who will be in convention here on that date.

The game will be at 3 o'clock, instead of 3:30, to permit the Billikens to catch a train for Memphis, where they play Thursday, and, as the Herzall people wanted the game earlier, everyone is satisfied.

"Mutt" Williams Invincible; Errors Permit Billies Run; Kircher the Offensive Star

By Bradley Allen.

Montgomery, June 1.—(Special.)—Williams, Atlanta's new pitcher, pitched effectively against the Billikens today and Atlanta won the second game of the series by scores of 4 to 1.

While Williams was hurling gilt-edge ball, Buscher, too, was holding the hard hitting Crackers down, and for the first seven innings it was anybody's game, each club having scored a run up to the eighth, both of which were the result of errors and not the fault of the pitchers.

In the eighth inning, however, the Crackers placed the game in safe storage by putting three counters across the rubber on a clean hit, a sacrifice and stolen base, two scratch hits, another error and a sacrifice fly.

Montgomery threatened in their half of the eighth and although Knaupp keens registered two hits in this inning, the first they had made since the third inning, they were unable to score, and in the ninth it was a case of three up and three down.

Brilliant Fielding.

While each club made four errors, still at times the fielding bordered on the sensational. Long, Welchonce, Hunter, Jantzen, Hollander and Knaupp all made several nice catches, stops or throws.

The game was one of the slowest played here this season despite the low score, for it took two hours and twenty-five minutes to go through the contest. Umpire Chesbro called the umpire who is said to make the players hustle, was umpiring from the bat.

He doesn't look to be any better than the others in this circuit, and was badly off on balls and strikes.

An amusing incident of the game happened in the seventh, when a ball pitched by Buscher hit Dunn, Montgomery shortstop, and Chestnutt could only grab the spot and "cuss."

The game Tuesday afternoon will be the last with Atlanta here, as the game scheduled for Wednesday here Wednesday will be transferred to Atlanta. This change in the schedule will necessitate the calling of the game Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock in order that both clubs may catch the night train for Atlanta.

Gilles announced after the game this afternoon that he will use Lively Tuesday in order to get his three games played here, while Smith states that he will probably pitch Doscher.

How They Scored.

Atlanta put one counter over in the first inning. McGuire fell when an out, but Kircher hit over the third sack for a hit. He stole second and went to third when Donahue's throw to second got by Hollandsworth. On a hot one to Snedecor, who knocked it down, but Ethel beat the batter to the bag and Kircher scored. Long hit into a double play and retired the side.

The Crackers scored three in the eighth as a result of three hits, only one of them clean, and two errors. Kircher opened with a clean single by short and was sacrificed by Ethel, Kircher then stole third. He scored when Snedecor muffed Long's pop-up just back of first. Williams hit an easy one to Knaupp who fumbled, and Long reached first, the bases being full. Dunn hit a long fly to left and Welchonce scored. Williams then retired the side by fanning.

After many good chances to score, but failing, Montgomery finally scored a run in the seventh. Elwert was walked and Williams hit Jantzen, Knaupp bunted each runner up one base. Donahue hit a fast one to Williams and Elwert was out at the plate after getting in a chase, which allowed Jantzen to take third and Donahue second. Jennings booted Buscher's grounder and Jantzen scored. Welchonce took care of Hollander's fly, after a long run.

TWO STRAIGHT WINS FOR BOYS' HIGH NINE

Tech High Is Defeated 6 to 4. Third Game of Series Today.

By the score of 6 to 4, Boys' high took the second game of the series from Tech high Tuesday afternoon, and now leads Tech high with two wins and none lost.

The game, which was played at Grant field, was a pitchers' battle in reality should have been won by Tech high, as they put up the best defensive game, but were weak on the offense. Eight bobbies were made by the Junior Smithies in the field, and in nearly all of the eight cases the runners were costly to Tech high.

Parks, hurling for Tech high, only allowed Boys' high four hits, and managed to keep them widely scattered. He issued eight batsmen, and issued free passes to four. Three of the Boys' high school's hits were of the one cushion variety, only one going for an extra base, and that was a two-ply smash.

"Ham" Starr, pitching for Boys' high, allowed six hits, two of which went for three sacks and were secured by Parks. He fanned six men and was credited with some sensational fielding on the part of his teammates and Comer playing by the Tech high infield he would have lost his game.

For Boys' high the playing of Sid Johnston was the feature record. Johnston made seven very difficult stops on the hot corner and in general played good ball.

Parks was the star for Tech high. Three times he struck out some extra juncts, the first sixteen promises to be classy.

Atlanta's hopes rest in W. H. Rowan, who '7 in the practice round Sunday was the best round of golf turned in during the day.

Nelson Whitney, Jack Edrington and Will Stewart, former champions, are all here for the play. Whitney won the championship at Montgomery last season.

Hanlon and Perry Battle At the Orpheum Tonight; Fans Are Expecting K. O.

Eddie Hanlon and Jimmy Perry are trained to the minute for the ten-round bout at the Orpheum theater tonight.

These two sterling welterweights, the first named an Atlanta product and the latter from Philadelphia, should furnish the best example of the manly art of self-defense that has been presented to Atlanta fandom in many a day.

Hanlon stopped Perry in three rounds the last time they met. Hanlon's friends say that he will repeat the dose, while Perry's friends say the blow was a lucky one, and that the jinx is with he on the other side of the house this time.

The supporters of the two boxers—and they are many—are wagering considerable on the outcome, and none of the wagers are going begging. Those who missed the first bout are going to attend this time, confident of witnessing a good battle, though a number of them will go to satisfy their own curiosity on how much Hanlon has improved.

Two other corking good bouts—a ten-round preliminary and an eight-round semi-windup—will be staged. The best preliminary scrappers in Atlanta will be used in these bouts.

The advance sale for the bouts have been so good that the promoters are expecting a record house tonight. Tickets can be purchased at the Rex or Tumlin Bros.' stores.

WHIFFS

Discovered.

THE CRACKERS seem to have uncovered a corking good twirler in Mutt Williams, the big right-hander from Washington. He uncorked a great game Monday in Montgomery. He deserved a shut-out. Errors permitted the lone Billie run. Four hits, two of them scratches, were all the Bills could collect.

Early Game Today.

TODAY'S game in Montgomery will be called at 3 o'clock to allow both teams to catch the train for Atlanta. Caller King will be at his usual place.

Try to Please.

WE TRY to please our readers. We have received so many letters of late regarding Whiffs, and such a general demand that they be resumed, that we are going to do our best to keep a column going every day. But there has been so little doing that was worth whiffing that we passed it up.

Crackers' Chances.

BILL SMITH and his boys are far from being out of the running for the Southern league race. We made the statement after a perusal of the standing one year ago. On June 1, 1913, the Crackers had won 21 games and lost 24. This year, won 20 and lost 22. Little difference. And there are 129 points from being the first-place team this year. Last year, standing at 46.6 per cent higher in the percentage table than they are today at the same time, they were 142 points back of the first-place team. What's your hunch?

The Winning Stride.

THE LOCALS struck a fairly decent clip during the month of June, last season. They won 17 games, lost 11 and tied 2, but it was not until July that they struck their winning stride. Let's see what they do this month of June, and then we'll be in position to judge just what their chances are for finishing high in the race.

Two Good Hurlers.

THERE are many who think the Crackers have many weak points, and we're not going to argue with them on that score, but we believe that if it is possible to purchase them and more good pitchers are bought who can twirl consistent ball, and substitute them for a couple of the weak ones, that we'll be willing to rock along with the infield, outfield and catchers as they stand.

Want to Know.

IT'S UP to Judge Kavanaugh to issue definite instructions to his umpires regarding the daily chasing of George Kircher from the coaching lines. The fans in the other towns in the league have seen the local comedian on the lines, and have roasted the umpires when they chased him. Judge Kavanaugh ought to get wise to himself and see that he is making enemies of the fans, that he is getting his umpires in bad and that he is chasing dollars away from the box office, by refusing to allow Kircher to stay on the lines. George has been introduced around Atlanta now, and there are many fans in every city who go just to see his antics.

Watch them.

OUR TIP now is to watch Bill Schwartz and his Nashville Volunteers. Bill has collected a formidable aggregation, one that is playing good team ball, a splendid fielding team, and one that, even if it is hitting above its stride, is hammering that old pellet timely and hard. He has the best catcher in the league in Gibson, four good twirlers in More, Berger, Boland and Smith, a good outfield in King, Callahan and Sloan and an average infield in Hemingway, Lindsay, Williams and Paulet. Our tip is to figure on the Vols when you're figuring on the first division occupants, if not the pennant winners.

Another Cause.

THE MASCOT of the Crackers, Dick Jemison, Jr., may be another cause that they are not winning. The youngster has been so busy cutting teeth for the past month that he has had little time to pull for the team. But he pulled across 19 out of 21 victories at the tail end of last season, and says he's going to get busy and rout that jinx shortly.

Watch Him.

THE GOLFERS of the south, and especially those who will start play in the southern golfing title at Memphis today had better watch their lamps on one William H. Rowan, from Atlanta, during this tournament. Our dope on Bill is, briefly, if he were able to play oftener than he does that he would prove his class over the entire field. Playing but twice a week now, he is better than a '7 handicap man. His preliminary round at Memphis Sunday, when he made a '7, looks good, and he's the man that these other cracks had better watch when they are figuring on the championship this year. Stick a pin in this prediction.

Send Correct One.

WE HAVE received numerous letters from fans in the towns in the Georgia-Alabama league inclosing standing of the clubs, that they desire us to insert in preference to the one The Constitution credits every claim is wrong. Standings should add the same number of games on the won and lost column. None of those we have received have. Wires to President Boykin, of the Georgia-Alabama league, asking for a correct standing, have been ignored, and we're going to rock along with the standing we have until someone in connection with the league has the courtesy to at least answer a communication sent them, or sends in a correct standing.

STATE CONVICT CAMPS ROASTED BY CRABTREE

Minister Says Little Attention Is Paid to Rules of Legislature and the Commission.

Admitting that there have been improvements in convict camp conditions in Georgia since the recent probe by the grand jury, Rev. George W. Crabtree, prison evangelist of the Presbyterian church in the United States, charges that on the whole the convict camps are a disgrace to the state.

"The filthy animal cages used in some counties," he says, "are awful to think of. Think of a cage, eighteen feet long, eight feet wide and eight feet high, and in this cage eighteen men in eighteen iron bunks! The prisoner can't sit up, but has to go to bed to keep from sitting in a cramped position.

"Very little attention is paid to the rules that have been laid down by the legislature and the prison commission. Almost all of the prisoners are still in stripes in spite of the law passed by the last legislature. The whipping, however, has been reduced 60 per cent."

Rev. Crabtree has been in the city about ten days lecturing on prison reform, and holding services at the various convict camps of Fulton county. Both the warden and the new superintendent have been holding religious services among the prisoners the last two Sundays. Mr. Crabtree finds that the Fulton county camps are clean and neat.

Mr. Crabtree was sent out six months ago by his church and the Men and Religion Forward Movement to investigate camp conditions. He travels in a large wagon, and practically lives in it. Sometimes he cooks his meals and camps in the prison camps with the prisoners and guards.

The progress of the greater Tech campaign was apparent yesterday at the luncheon meeting at the Piedmont hotel, when an exceptionally strong body of business men of Atlanta agreed to serve as the executive committee for the campaign.

They are: J. R. A. Hobson, chairman; H. M. Atkinson, E. P. McBurney, V. H. Kriegshaber, Captain J. W. English, Brooks Morgan, W. T. Gentry, Allen Johnson, W. L. Peel, David Woodward, T. K. Glenn, Mell R. Wilkinson, George Baldwin of Savannah, Walter P. Andrews, A. R. Colcord, Charles J. Haden, S. A. Carter, P. S. Arkwright, J. T. Holleman, J. S. Floyd, W. W. Orr and J. W. Patterson.

The meeting was enthusiastic and well attended. There were present thirty of the most prominent business men of the city, who enlisted heartily into the spirit of the movement. Although no work of solicitation has yet been done by the committee, several large subscriptions have already been made and will be announced shortly.

Another Meeting Today.

There will be another meeting Tuesday in a private dining room at the Piedmont, at which ten subcommittees will be organized and the work of each designated.

Dr. R. G. Matheson, president of Tech, called the meeting to order, and announced the selection of Mr. Hobson as chairman of the executive committee. Dr. Matheson briefly thanked those who were in attendance for their presence, and expressed his confidence that the campaign will succeed. "There is too much at stake not to win," he declared. "I am sure that all of us realize that it will take work, but we have the kind of men interested who are willing to work, who are able to do the work and who are accustomed to succeed."

Mr. Hooson, in accepting the position of chairman of the committee, stated that he did so for the reason that he was able to give more of his time to the movement perhaps than others whom he considered more capable than he.

"I believe that I will have the active co-operation of a set of men who would make certain the success of any movement."

Ten Subcommittees.

The committee is to name ten subcommittees, and the work will be apportioned among them.

"The success of the campaign depends largely upon proper organization to begin with," stated Mr. Hobson.

Eight men have agreed to serve on the committees. Another luncheon meeting will be held Tuesday at 12:45 p. m. in room 133 of the Piedmont hotel. There the organization of the subcommittees will be completed, and the campaign for subscriptions will begin in earnest.

Although no efforts have been made as yet to secure subscriptions to the fund, it was announced Monday that a number of them, aggregating a considerable amount, had already been received.

FIGHT TO OPEN FRIDAY ON THE FRANK VERDICT

It was announced from Solicitor Dorsey's office yesterday afternoon that there were no prospects for a further continuance in the Tye motion to set aside the Frank verdict, and that the battle would begin Friday morning at 10 o'clock before Judge Ben Hill.

The solicitor has accumulated a mass of evidence bearing on the motion, and has arranged his counter-showing. Numerous affidavits have been made for him by court offices and attaches, and will be used in his fight to prevent the verdict being reversed.

COTTON CONTINUES TO MOVE UPWARD

October and December Contracts Sold Above Thirteen Cents First Time This Season.

New York, June 1.—Notwithstanding the big advance in the past two or three weeks, still higher prices were established in the cotton market after the publication of the government's crop report today, with October and December contracts selling above 13 cents for the first time this season. Heavy realizing was encountered, but was absorbed on comparatively moderate reactions, and the market closed steady net gain of 22 to 37 points as compared with the final quotations on Friday.

There was an opening advance of 8 to 12 points, owing to the failure of the weather map to show any material improvement in conditions over the two-day adjournment, and prices rose some 11 to 22 points net higher before the official condition figures were issued. The private reports of last week had prepared the trade for a somewhat favorable showing, but the actual statement, indicating the condition of only 74.5 per cent as of May 25, proved much more bullish than anticipated, and evidently brought in buying orders from all directions.

It was a holiday in the Liverpool market and in most European circles, but some cabled orders were received while there was active buying by local and southern interests and a considerable demand from the trade in the large spot houses. Active months sold 30 to 41 points net higher in the consequence, with December contracts touching 13.10.

Reactions of 10 to 12 points followed under heavy profittaking. Very bullish opinions were expressed on the basis of the official condition report, indicating that the start of the crop was fully 6 per cent under the average and with but two exceptions the most unfavorable reported for the past twenty years, while buyers pointed out that weather conditions had not remained unfavorable over a good part of the belt since the government report was compiled.

New Orleans Cotton.

New Orleans, June 1.—The price of cotton advanced nearly two dollars a bale today, on heavy buying, based on crop expectations regarding the government's condition report in the early trading, very later by the report itself, the figures 74.5 being well under general expectations.

The report was issued at 11 o'clock and up to the hour the market was 11 to 13 points. The advance was widened to 24 to 30 points immediately following the posting of the report and in the afternoon all of the more active months sold 40 points up. Profit taking by longs was heavy on the rise, but it was absorbed by the selling well. Late in the day the values fell off somewhat on realizing, but left a net gain of 18 to 20 points, July showing the smallest rise.

It was one of the most active sessions in several months, with a larger volume of orders coming from outside interests.

Jay, Bond & Co.

New York, June 1.—With no improvement in weather conditions in Texas and reports of some of the larger rivers in that state overflowing their banks, prices here during the first two hours were advanced about twenty points. As the time approached for the publication of the government report business increased in volume, and when the figures, 74.5, were announced the force of buying advanced the market another points, but the report created also an improvement in the crops' condition during June is important and should be kept within reasonable bounds and, therefore, moderate weather is expected until prospects assume a decidedly more favorable form.

John F. Black & Co.

New York, June 1.—The government condition report today, placing the condition 74.5, confirmed all the forecasts of the trade. When it is taken into consideration that the worst weather of the season had been since May 25, the last day supposed to be covered by today's report, the condition represents a very poor start. On the report today, new crop sold 13 cent for the first time. How about a start, does 12 cents on June discount? That is the question. Average crop months closed 35 to 39 points higher than on last Friday. The advance from around 11 has been very rapid, and there is never so long a good weather it should come during June. The world needs a good crop, however, and wise traders will shun the short side during the season and buy on all reactions.

Liverpool was closed today, and it is due to open about $2 a bale up tomorrow.

Hubbard Bros. & Co.

New York, June 1.—The feature of the market today was, of course, the agricultural bureau report on the condition of the crop as of May 25, the trade generally anticipating low figures, so that the estimate of 74.5 when published did not create especial excitement, although the market advanced quickly some 20 points. The condition figures compare with 74.3 in 1913, and in 1910 as the lowest condition reports in 20 years. The figures for Texas, 65 and Oklahoma, 84, covering the abnormal rainfall in these states are the features of the report. The question now before the trade is how far to go in the way of discount these figures.

Liverpool was closed today, in observance of the Whitsuntide holidays, and it is, therefore, difficult to judge what view the foreign markets will take of the figures. We think the trade generally will let the market depends entirely on whether the forecast spinner is now brought to bear against his fall requirements by this condition report.

In the late trading, the market eased off from the best, on many private reports from Georgia of showers, which would, of course, be beneficial in the eastern belt.

Cotton Seed Oil.

New York, June 1.—Cotton seed oil was firm, opening 10 to 12 points net higher on leading months. Covering of shorts and professional buying on the advance in cotton and lard was the cause of strength. Later outside buying was disappointingly small. The market closed firm. Spot, $7.40@7.25. WHEAT DECLINED; CORN ADVANCED

Wheat Market Affected by Reports From Kansas of Big Yield—Corn Showed Strength.

Chicago, June 1.—With harvest only a week away in Kansas and with prospect of the state yielding a magnificent crop of 180,000,000 bushels, the bears had the advantage today in the wheat pit. Prices closed heavy and 1¼@¾ to ⅞ lower. Corn scored up ⅛@⅜ to ⅝ above Saturday night; oats varying from a shade off to 1-4 advance, and provisions at a gain of 2½ to 10@12½.

Kansas estimates were based on assessors' returns showing that out of 9,134,286 acres planted, 8,742,793 acres would be left standing for harvest, and would average 20.6 bushels to the acre. Corn developed strength. Fears spread that an acute want of supplies would be felt in this country before any other crop was raised. Army worms were said to be doing immense damage in Illinois. Missouri and Kansas dispatches were unpromising.

Oats had abullish turn, owing to assertions of irreparable damage in Illinois by the recent drouth.

Provisions received good support, notwithstanding that the hog market showed a downward slant. Lard especially was strong.

133 GIRLS GIVEN "DIPS" FROM G. N. & I. COLLEGE

Milledgeville, Ga., June 1.—(Special.) One hundred and thirty-three Georgia girls received diplomas at the graduating exercises of the Georgia Normal and Industrial college here this morning, while sixty others received certificates in the various departments. Altogether nearly 200 go out from this institution this year. The college exhibits were most attractive at this commencement and were seen by a very large crowd of visitors this afternoon.

Judge N. E. Harris, of Macon, was a visitor and made to the large graduating class, an impressive address on education along technical lines in Georgia. Mrs. John M. Slaton was present and a most welcomed visitor to the college. She made a beautiful short talk to the senior class.

The board of directors held their final meeting this afternoon after electing the faculty for next session and attending to many matters connected with the operation of the college. The work of lady visitors also was in session inspecting the general work of the school. The two boards held a short joint session this afternoon.

The students leave for their homes tonight and tomorrow, the railroad having put on extra trains for their accommodation.

President Parks declared this year to have been the most successful year in the history of the institution. One of the attractive features of this commencement was the unveiling of a portrait of the late Dr. J. H. Harris Chaplin, first president of the G. N. & I. college. The picture was a present from the alumnae. Another feature was the presentation to the college by the 1914 senior class of a handsome sun dial. The exercises of this presentation were particularly attractive.

18 GIRL GRADUATES AT WESLEYAN COLLEGE

Macon, Ga., June 1.—(Special.)—Eighteen young women received their diplomas tonight at Wesleyan Female college, the exercises bringing the annual commencement to a close. The delivery of the diplomas followed the literary address by Dr. H. M. DuBose, pastor of the First Methodist church, of Atlanta, and the baccalaureate address by Dr. Charles R. Jenkins, D. D. Earlier in the afternoon an art reception was given at the college and it proved one of the most interesting features of the commencement season. Other features of commencement were the commencement sermon preached Sunday morning by Bishop Warren A. Candler; an address Sunday evening by Dr. H. Hastings, one of the missionaries of the Methodist church, with headquarters in Nashville, Tenn.; class day exercises and the presentation of the play, "Twelfth Night," Saturday, and the annual meeting of the board of trustees last Friday.

ATLANTA'S STRIDES FROM DAY TO DAY

Advocates of the Spring street improvement project must await the making of the June budget before they get any money. The $4,000 needed to purchase a strip of land at Carnegie way and Spring street from the Rhodes estate.

Councilman Farlinger went before council yesterday afternoon with a resolution urging council to pass up the money. He explained that the spring street property owners and citizens behind the improvement project has secured an option on the Rhodes strip, and that the money was needed immediately because the time limit is about to expire.

Councilmen who are fighting for money for other projects voted against the resolution, which caused it to be tabled by a vote of 12 against 11.

The first vote was a tie, which was broken when Mayor Pro Tem. Candler voted against the resolution.

The resolution will be asked this summer to grant permission for the purchase of another strip of land, just off Carnegie way and in the rear of the governor's mansion for the further improvement of Spring street.

New Concern Locates Here.

W. H. Leahy, secretary of the industrial and statistical bureau of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, on Monday made announcement of another concern which has decided to make Atlanta its distributing headquarters for the southeast. This is the firm of John A. Roebling & Sons, builders of bridges, cables and one of the best-known and oldest wire-rope concerns in the United States.

This concern now makes Savannah its southeastern headquarters, but has decided to move to Atlanta because Atlanta can furnish to distribution destinations the same haul, so that the difference in water rates to Savannah as to make the move economical.

The Roebling concern have in mind several sites for a large warehouse, and will decide on one of them in the near future. They may build a new warehouse, or may lease one which is already built.

More Concerns Coming.

Secretary Leahy reports that inquiries from manufacturing concerns, looking to making Atlanta a southern manufacturing and distributing point, are better just now than they have been in the history of the bureau.

Among prospects which he says he is reasonably assured of landing is another automobile plant, which will erect a southern assembling plant, likely in the Fulton or Ford people.

A large agricultural implement manufacturing concern is looking at sites for a branch factory.

A flour mill and small hosiery mill are also among concerns which have their eyes on Atlanta.

That Industrial Building.

Secretary Leahy is much enthusiastic over the proposed community industrial building, and will hit it another lick at the meeting of the Industrial Bulletin which will be from the press in a few days.

With the large number of small concerns that are coming to Atlanta, he is sure that the construction of such a building would be a paying investment, and would work to the mutual advantage of itself and the growth of the city. The facilities which such a building would offer to the small manufacturer would attract many new concerns, and these concerns, at the same time, would make the building pay.

$21,000 Property Exchange.

B. M. Grant & Co., has sold for M. H. Clark to J. B. Thompson a vacant lot, 26x60, on the south side of Poplar street, between Cone and Fairley streets, for a consideration of $15,000. Mr. Thompson pays the first payment, a large lot, partly improved, at the corner of Pine and Lovejoy streets valued at $6,000.

Three Small Sales.

The Martin-Osburn Realty company has made the following sales:

For a client to C. J. Wall, Nos. 323-5 Cooper street, a 6-room house on a lot 40x100, for $2,350.

For Dr. DeLos Hill to a client, a vacant lot, 50x100, on Hillard street, 200 feet north of Forrest avenue, for $700.

For Dr. Hill to a client, No. 376 Hillard street, a five-room cottage on a lot 20x100, for $1,500.

Legal Sales Today.

Several parcels will be sold before the courthouse doors of legal sales this morning. Among these the Rivers Realty company will offer No. 31 Augusta avenue, a six-room cottage on a lot 50x170, and a vacant strip of land on Little street.

Wednesday's Auction Sale.

Forrest and George Adair and Roff Sisk, Jr., will sell at public auction on Wednesday at noon, five store rooms on the intersection of Marietta and Walton streets. These lots have a frontage of 26 feet each, with depths ranging from 80 to 100 feet. There is a 14-foot rear alley outlet to Earl street.

This is good semi-central property for the purpose to create considerable interest among ready men and investors.

The terms will be one-fourth cash, and the rest payable in one, two and three years, with interest at 7 per cent.

BY A LITTLE MORE YOU MAY WIN AUTO

seem as though the contest course was extraordinarily clear, and that the contest will be ridiculously easy to win. The contestant has the chance to constitute an opportunity, the like of which has perhaps never before been seen in this country. Usually with awards of such intrinsic value offered free, to a competition of this kind, there are far more competitors than compensations.

Cash Awards.

In addition to the grand prizes, The Constitution offers each energetic candidate who enters this contest a cash award as set forth in the rules and regulations of the contest. It will be seen from this that it is impossible to venture into the contest without gaining some profit.

How it is possible to overlook the opportunities as given in this competition is a mystery. Every advantage is given and every inducement offered to ambitious, energetic people, who, as a rule, are willing to meet opportunity half way. In this instance, however, it would seem that few appreciate the chance given through this contest, and little activity is apparent in developing.

June 6 at Midnight.

At midnight June 6 will close the two hundred thousand extra bonus vote offer. After this time no larger bonus offer will be made. It is, therefore, to the interest of every candidate to begin securing subscriptions at once and make every effort possible to secure as many 500 and 1,000 new year subscriptions as possible during this week. Two hundred thousand extra votes for every 1,000 new subscriptions turned in before midnight June 6 and no larger bonus offer. The contest will soon be a thing of the past. Your chances longer—get in now—everything is free.

If you are not in the race, to put forth the proper effort you cannot lose.

It is not at all necessary to hold subscriptions that apply on the special $250 offer until the full amount for a club is on hand. At the close of the period all subscriptions are reckoned up and the full number of extra certificates due on clubs secured are sent at one time to the contestants. All regular votes are issued the candidate as soon as this office can get them out after the subscriptions are received, but no extra votes are issued until the close of the club period. The few who have secured the right to an extra certificate should understand this rule.

You are not a candidate, but have been interested in this contest, send in your name today and try to obtain for yourself something worth while. You can do it, if you make the proper effort. Get busy—begin to try. Start at once.

Remember that the bonus period in in effect from May 30 until midnight June 6, and will be as follows: For every club of $30 worth of new subscriptions turned in or mailed to this office between the above dates a certificate for two hundred thousand additional votes will be issued. These clubs must be composed of new subscriptions for three and six months, as well as yearly subscriptions.

COMMITTEE FAVORS INVITING ELKS HERE

Favorable Report Will Be Made at Meeting of Atlanta Lodge Thursday.

On next Thursday night the committee recently appointed by the Atlanta Elks to look into the advisability of inviting the Elks' convention to come to Atlanta in 1916, will report unanimously in favor of extending the invitation.

This decision was reached at a meeting of the committee, with fourteen members present at the home of Walter P. Andrews, on Peachtree road, last night. Mr. Andrews was elected chairman of the committee, and Fred Houser was made secretary.

The committee decided to make this unanimous report after a thorough investigation of the sentiment of many people toward inviting the Elks. The committee found all conditions favorable.

A large delegation of Atlanta Elks is expected to go to Denver when the next convention meets there in July and put up a fight for the 1916 meet.

AT THE THEATERS.

Keith Vaudeville.

(At the Forsyth.)

When Kenny, Nobody and Platt introduced the famous race between Steamboat Bill and Casey Jones, at the Forsyth, yesterday afternoon, as the conclusion to their act, they made a fatal mistake.

Why? Well, they came mighty near not being able to leave the stage. Before this song they could have walked off without anybody making any particular objections. After the race got under way and the horrible accident came to pass at the drawbridge it seemed for a while that the other acts on the bill would be a long time waiting for their turn.

When the above mentioned eminent comedians had taken off the stage the remnants of the racing machines of their famous drivers, Miss Claire Rochester, an Atlanta girl, proceeded to prove that you don't have to "rag" in Atlanta in order to secure an appreciative greeting. Miss Rochester possesses a most unusual voice, singing soprano and baritone with equal ease.

A feature of the bill this week is the act of Dave Claudius and Lillian Scarlett, in their banjo specialty, "The Call of the Sixties." While they are playing, and the words of old-time songs are flashed upon the screen, people come near forgetting that "everybody's doing" a different sort of song and dance act these days.

Ralph Lynn and a company of ten appear in the one-act musical comedy, entitled "The Purple Lady." The success of the number is due principally to the hard work of Lynn, who is on the stage nearly every minute of the time, and wins many a laugh both by his looks and the way he renders his lines.

Emma Bunting and company appear in a tabloid of "The Princess of Patches," which she played at the Lyric during her stock engagement here. The Torleys, expert bicyclists, open the bill.

One-Act Plays.

(At the Lyric.)

If it's a thrill, a chuckle, you are seeking, or if your thirst is for the melancholy in stage literature, you'll find the right place at the Lyric theater this week.

For Miss Lucille LaVerne and her gifted company is doing the daring in stock theatricals—producing four masterpieces of stage literature, "The Man in the Street," "Diagnosis," "In the Dragon's Claws," and last, but by no means least, the sprightly comedy sketch, "Literature." Each playlet has been produced before. But not in stock, as far as we know. Forbes Aylmer directed the original productions at the Little theater in Philadelphia, and he was unstintedly praised.

In repeating the four one-act masterpieces Mr. Aylmer and Miss LaVerne and her company deserve thanks. It is an undertaking that should demand the attention of the drama lover, even though the sketch by Arthur Schnitzler, "Literature," at times is dangerously suggestive of the vaudeville.

In each sketch Mr. Middlemass and Miss Blakeney are given great opportunities, and their work stands out in bold and delightful contrast to any former efforts. Particularly true is this of Mr. Middlemass in the sketch, "Literature." From the character of Louie Kim, in the melancholy Chinese sketch, "In the Dragon's Claws," to that of Clement, a polished English gentleman in "Literature," is the lofty height to which he soars with no apparent effort.

Now, to Mr. Aylmer. His Jabez Gorgon, the vagabond musician in "The Man in the Street," is the most careful studies and convincing characterization it has been our good fortune to see. And as Quong Mong, in "The Dragon's Claws," he again showed that careful study which characterizes his work.

Miss Haskell is splendid in her part in "Literature," and in the Chinese playlet what little she contributes to the piece is finished. Miss Stewart, an Atlanta girl, has a part in "The Dragon's Claws." She is a charming young woman, and very talented, and will make her mark.

And just a few words about little Julien Whitten, whose work is positively refreshing and pleasing.

JAMES V. MEADE.

Movies De Luxe.

(At the Grand.)

Speaking of variety! Want to know a good place to find it? Up at the Grand! Some show this week! Sure, go see for yourself. In one feature reel Sidney Drew, one of the most popular movie comedians on the stage, convulses the house with laughter.

In the next the thrilling situation in Mexico is depicted with more realism than was probably ever put on the screen. A man who snapshotted the pictures, and in the third big reel is produced undoubtedly the most realistic steamship disaster that ever happened for the benefit of the movie fans.

In the interim, Miss Jessie Houston, an attractive singer, furnishes another form of appreciable variety. Miss Houston is a recent addition to the Grand program. Her work last night was well received.

"Goodness Gracious" is the title of the comedy feature. It stars Sidney Drew and Clara Kimball Young, of the Vitagraph company. In the parlance of the screen fans, it's a riot.

"Lost in Mid-Ocean" is the subject of the dramatic thriller. It is built around a disaster at sea, and is a movie production of the historical Titanic tragedy.

"Goodness Gracious" and "Lost at Sea" will be presented for the first three days of the week, after which the Vitagraph company's production, "The Billionaire," will be presented.

Round of Entertainments Planned for Delegates To Rexall Convention

The Rexallites are in town strong, and with them comes L. K. Liggett, of Boston, Mass., father of the United Drug company.

The occasion is the twelfth annual convention of the United Drug company, which will open this morning at 10 o'clock, with welcoming addresses by Governor Slaton and Mayor Woodward, at the Auditorium.

These visiting druggists are from all parts of the country, and with them many have brought their wives and their families. For their entertainment the convention committee has brought to this city a horde of novel entertainers, and during each of the three days of the session tea-dansants, theater parties, dinners and other forms of entertainment will be enjoyed by the visitors.

The Rexall convention which convenes in Atlanta today will be the biggest of the four conventions held this year by the Rexall drug stores, and Dr. J. T. Wages, of Winder, Ga., head of the Wages organization, urges every member in Georgia to come to Atlanta and reap the benefits of the session.

A great time has been planned. The Auditorium has been handsomely decorated, and will present a beautiful scene to the druggists when they convene this morning.

During the afternoon while the business session is going on the ladies of the party will assemble in the Auditorium and automobiles will be provided for a trip through the city.

The program is as follows:

Resinol

Jan. 27, 1914: "I suffered over eight years with eczema. My hands looked like they had been burned by fire and peeled off until they were one raw flesh. I was told it was eczema. It itched and burned me so that I could not sleep at night. I tried all sorts of eczema salves and one prescription after another but nothing gave me any relief until I tried Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment. After the first application my hands never itched or burned again, and were well in one week. I want every sufferer from eczema to know that they can find a cure in Resinol." (Signed) Miss Ethel Scott, Milstead, Ga.

SAYS WOMAN PLANNED MURDER OF HUSBAND

Statement Written by Nick Wilburn Read to Prison Commission.

A sensational feature was injected in the hearing before the prison commission of Nick Wilburn, sentenced to hang for the murder of James King, a farmer of Jones county, when a statement written by the defendant was used. It was the first statement he has ever prepared.

In it he states that Mrs. King, the wife of the murdered man, forced her attentions on him; that when the affair first began he was seated on a woodpile and that she threw her arms around him and repeatedly kissed him. She afterwards met him in the woods, he says, and requested him to meet her there every day. Mrs. King, he asserts, was a woman much older than himself, and her influence over him was strong. She it was, he says, who planned the murder of her husband.

She told him he must make way with King and that they would use the $2,000 life insurance of her husband.

The hearing for commutation consumed several hours. The commission now has the application under advisement.
